U.N. Faces New Delay In Quest For Korea Peace

Formal Proposals Declared Lacking

LAKE SUCCESS

(BUP)—Informed sources report the U.N. cease-fire committee will propose a new plan for ending the Korean war this afternoon. It would halt the shooting immediately and have both sides gradually withdraw from the peninsula.

LAKE SUCCESS, N.Y. (AP)—The United Nations today faced a new delay in its quest for a Korean peace settlement.

The General Assembly's 60-member political committee was scheduled to meet this afternoon, but informed quarters said it probably would adjourn until next week because no one had any formal proposals ready yet.

The situation was this: The Assembly's three-member cease-fire committee had a six-point truce plan, but wasn't ready to submit it because India's Sir Benegal N. Rau wanted to get approval first from his chief, Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru, who now is in London.

ISRAEL HAS PLAN

Israel had a similar seven-point plan, but did not want to formalize it in a resolution unless it received substantial support.

The United States had a plan, calling for condemnation of Communist China as an aggressor, but wanted to give the U.N. another chance to seek a cease-fire.

The picture was complicated further by the fact that the whole Far Eastern problem was under consideration by the conference of Commonwealth prime ministers in London. Many delegates felt they should at least wait until the Commonwealth diplomats had received word of any decisions which might affect their attitude.

Diplomatic sources reported, meanwhile, that the other two members of the cease-fire committee were getting impatient over the slowness of the Indian government in approving the proposed truce formula which was sent to Nehru in London almost a week ago.

Weary Refugee Rests

A little Korean girl rests by large bundle of her family's possessions as civilians stream southward from battle area. It is estimated 10 million civilians are on the move away from the onrushing Red armies, one of the most tragic events in modern history. Red troops disguised as civilians, mingle with the refugees, presenting a major problem to United Nations army leaders. Only One Plea Left For Guay

QUEBEC (CP)—Mr. Justice Albert Sevigny today ruled against a petition requesting a stay of execution for J. Albert Guay, due to be hanged shortly after midnight tonight at Bordeaux in Montreal.

The petition was laid Wednesday before the Chief Justice of Quebec Superior Court by Irene Simard, counsel for Mrs. Arthur Pitre who is due to go on trial for murder Feb. 20 as an accomplice of Guay in Quebec's airplane time-bomb case.

The petition by Simard was one of two 11th-hour moves made Wednesday to keep Guay from the gallows.

While the Simard petition was argued before Mr. Justice Sevigny, Guay's lawyers appeared in Ottawa before Justice Minister Garson with their final appeal for a stay of execution and a new trial for the 33-year-old jewelry salesman.

Simard's petition asked for a postponement of the hanging on the ground he needed to question Guay in the preparation of Mrs. Pitre's defence and "probably" would need Guay as a witness at Mrs. Pitre's trial.

Mr. Justice Sevigny ruled that this argument was not a definite indication of intention to call Guay at the Pitre trial.

The petition also declared that new facts in the time-bomb case has been brought to light during the December murder trial of Genereaux Ruest, Mrs. Pitre's brother and the maker of the time-bomb. Ruest has lodged an appeal against his sentence to be hanged March 16.

Mr. Justice Sevigny said to obtain a stay of execution on such grounds it was necessary that a petition single out at least "one or some" of the new facts but this was not done.

All that now stands between Guay and the gallows, is the Justice Minister's ruling on the appeal made personally to him.

Village Bell May Disperse Sect Members

KEREMEOS, B.C. (CP)—The village assembly bell today may toll the dispersal of the "Children of Light" cult, whose members have been isolated 17 stormy days in search of serenity.

That is, unless the 35-member sect wants to face the consequences under the School Attendance Act.

"K" day—for kindergarten—has passed. Now it's "C" day—and the "C" is for classroom. The Keremeos school board issued the return ultimatum Wednesday.

If the children venture out from the farmhouse retreat on the edge of town, the elders are expected to follow, thus ending the long wait for either the "world's end" or a "message from God."

But there may be one loophole. One of the cult members is a former school teacher, and the law says if equal education is provided by a teacher, children are not compelled to attend public school. Whether this is the situation must be decided before any action is taken.

GIVES PROMISE The leader of the white-robed, hymn-singing group, 50-year-old Mrs. Grace Carlson, has promised that the youngsters will get back to their books.

"We have every reason to hope they will return voluntarily," said Fred C. McCague, junior high school principal. "If they don't, their parents will feel the full force of the law."

Wonju Defence Is Imperiled

(Combined UP, AP Dispatches)

TOKYO—A powerful Communist column hit deep into the U.S. 8th Army's flank today in an end run around embattled Wonju to a point 70 miles south of Korea's 38th Parallel.

The new threat was disclosed by 8th Army headquarters as fighting just below the central Korean stronghold of Wonju tapered off temporarily in snow and sleet storms.

An 8th Army spokesman reported a "large number" of enemy troops moving south six to eight miles north of Tanyang, a railway and highway hub 35 miles southeast of Wonju.

It was the farthest south the Communists have penetrated since they cracked the old Chongchon River line in northwest Korea in late November.

The thrust not only endangered the outnumbered U.S. 2nd Division at Wonju, but threatened to flank strategic Chungju, 22 miles west of Tanyang, and was aimed straight across escape highways from western Korea to the old Pusan beachhead.

American, Dutch and French units of the 2nd Division did little more than exchange small arms and artillery fire and send out probing patrols today, United Press war correspondent Joe Quinn reported from the front at 5 p.m. Korea time.

Meanwhile, Allied forces hacked out a holding line on the critical central Korean front after the see-saw battle south of Wonju.

The battlefront was unusually quiet late in the day. The snow-covered valley and hills were spotted with the blood of 2,100 killed and wounded Korean Communists.

SEVEN-HOUR FIGHT

American, French and Dutch troops dealt out death to the enemy in a seven-hour fight that developed after a tank-led United States 2nd Division patrol pushed into the abandoned road-rail hub of Wonju and then voluntarily withdrew. At one stage, the Americans fixed bayonets and charged.

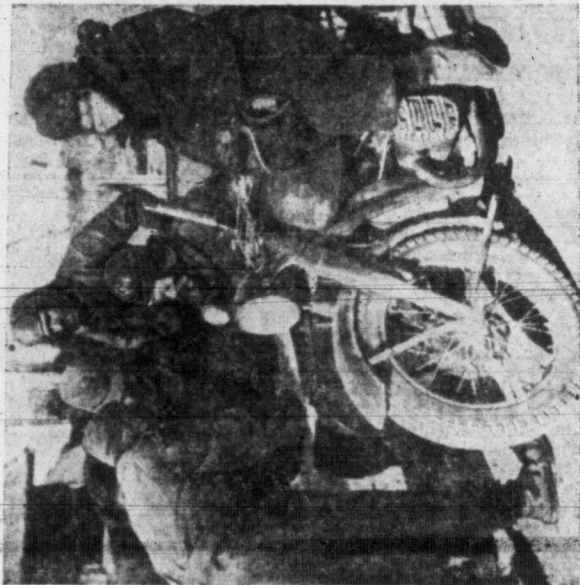

More than 7,000 North Koreans jumped the company-size entry patrol south of Wonju on the road to Chongju. The patrol was reinforced by the other Allied forces and the Reds broke off the battle Wednesday night.

NEW MENACE

But the greatest menace to Allied arms was shaping up in a 50-mile stretch between Chungju and Red-held Osan in western Korea.

Chinese and Korean Red forces estimated at 285,000 were in the area of moving toward it in an apparent bid to cut off the main forces of the U.S. Eighth Army on the road south of abandoned Seoul.

In that area roads fan out through the hills, affording many avenues of approach to the Allied forces.

B.C. Scots May Urge Home Rule

The Scottish Covenant Movement—Scotland's fight for home rule—has spread to B.C. A petition now is being circulated to all persons of Scottish origin.

(Already 1,700,000 signatures, urging a parliament for Scotland, have been recorded from among the 5,000,000 residents of Scotland.)

Donald G. MacKinnon, president of the St. Andrew's Caledonian Society, said Wednesday night that the petition will be put into circulation in B.C. immediately.

He added that the association is "neither endorsing nor condemning the movement."

"But every Scot will be given an opportunity to sign it."

LONDON (AP)—John J. Campbell, leader of a home-rule patrol south of Wonju on the road to Chongju. The patrol was reinforced by the other Allied forces and the Reds broke off the battle Wednesday night.

The demand was the latest development in the Christmas Day snatching of Britain's Coronation stone—also known as the Scottish Stone of Destiny—from Westminster Abbey.

The proposal was made public by Campbell, head of the Scottish National Covenant Committee, in letters to the Prime Minister and Santa Anita Scratches.

Detectives trying to find the Coronation stone are proceeding on the theory it was spirited away by Scottish patriots.

Covenant leaders claim they have the support of 60 to 70 per cent of the 2,000,000 adult Scots north of the English border.

Meanwhile nationalism broke out in another quarter of the tight little island—this time in Wales.

The plaid Cymru, or Welsh Nationalist Party, made public a letter demanding that the Labor government apply "the principle of self-rule within the British Commonwealth to your own people in Wales."

NEW CATHOLIC DECREE

Pope Forbids Clergy From Joining Rotary

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Pope Pius XII has forbidden Catholic clergymen to join Rotary clubs or attend their meetings.

A decree of the Supreme Sacred Congregation of the Holy Office—one of the 11 congregations that govern Catholic Church affairs—was published today in the Vatican newspaper, L'Osservatore Romano, giving that directive. The Pope is the prefect of the congregation.

The decree, printed in Latin, advised laymen against joining Rotary clubs, but did not expressly forbid them from doing so, Vatican sources said. It was drawn up at the Dec. 20 meeting of the congregation in answer to queries on the subject.

Plan Would Save U.N. Cease-Fire Resolution

LONDON (CP)—Informed sources today reported that the Commonwealth countries have proposed a high-level meeting between the United States and Communist China to discuss a Korean settlement.

The proposed get-together would be under United Nations auspices, the informants said. Neither the United States nor Red China has so far reacted to the suggestion.

The new move apparently has the support of the leaders of all nine Commonwealth countries who have been discussing the tense situation in the Orient and in the rest of the world in a conference which began here last Thursday.

Few details of the proposal were available, but its immediate objectives were clear.

It would seek to avoid formulation in the United Nations of a new cease-fire resolution which might prove unacceptable to either the United States or Red China. It would seek to defer offering of a projected United States resolution to have the United Nations brand Communist China an aggressor.

Britain, other members of the Commonwealth and many western countries would find it difficult to support such a resolution. Some have recognized the Peiping Government. All want to keep out of a limited or open war against Red China. They fear labeling Communist China an aggressor eventually would lead to imposition of economic sanctions against China, which could be a step to war.

PRINCIPLES STUDIED

The Prime Ministers have been studying a set of principles which Britain and India are said to feel would help end the Korean war. These include admission of Red China to the U.N., reaffirmation by the big powers of the 1943 Cairo declaration promising return of Formosa to China, a time-table for withdrawal of foreign troops from Korea and a seat for Red China on any U.N. group set up to restore Korea politically and economically. Foreign secretary Bevin of Britain is said to have laid these principles before Prime Minister Nehru of India last Friday—but the word "proposal" is avoided.

Britain is understood to be sounding out the Americans in Washington on the idea of meeting the Red Chinese. India has put out feelers in Peiping.

While it has the blessing of the Commonwealth bloc as a whole, the initiative does not represent a joint Commonwealth move.

The sources were careful to stress the Commonwealth in no way is ganging up on the U.S. over the Korean crisis.

MUST TRY EVERYTHING

The action stems from general agreement recorded by the Prime Ministers that the non-Communist world must try everything possible to keep out of war with Red China.

Setting for an American-Chinese get-together presumably would be Lake Success if it is held under United Nations auspices.

The informants did not say whether the conference proposal called for unconditional acceptance.

Reds Protest; Ike Continues European Tour

THE HAGUE (AP)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower today began a series of talks with Dutch leaders to find out what this little country has to contribute towards the defence of Western Europe.

After a conference with the chiefs of the Dutch army, navy and air force, Eisenhower left for the office of Premier Willem Drees.

Later he will fly to Copenhagen for the fourth of a 10-country check-up on Western Europe's contributions to the Atlantic Alliance.

In his visits to both Belgium and the Netherlands Eisenhower has had the task of convincing these two small powers that defence against Red aggression is a job the West must assume to save itself. In both lands the fear of war between Russia and the West is great, but in both countries observers said that there has been an awakening realization of the need for rearmament.

Some 200 people demonstrated before the building of the United States Information Service in Amsterdam Wednesday night, shouting "down with German rearmament" and "down with Eisenhower."

Communists distributed pamphlets near the military barracks here this morning warning Dutch soldiers they would soon have to serve shoulder to shoulder with German troops "who murdered our families, and with the same bandits who plundered and looted our country."

Opposed To New Sport Fishing Tax

Allan McLean of Campbell River Chamber of Commerce informed the Associated Chambers at Victoria Wednesday his group was against the proposal that certain sections of tidal waters around the B.C. coast should be debared free sport fishing.

He regarded it as unfair to allow some parts to remain free while others were penalized. The chambers were on record against sports fishing license by the federal government for tidal water areas.

Canada-Bound Cadets Delayed By Storms

LONDON (CP)—Atlantic gales delayed the departure today of 28 R.A.F. cadet pilots scheduled to arrive in Canada Saturday for aircrew training.

An R.A.F. aircraft waited at London airport to fly the cadets to Montreal but two hours after the scheduled take-off time the pilots were told their flight had been postponed until tomorrow.

Fair Grounds Scratches

First Race—Equinox, Count Quick, Sir Huaco, Bonnie Donnie, Cassina, Scarlet Rhodie.

Second Race—Georgia, Fana G, Flo Lassie, Carter Girl, Wild Cat, Fair Revenue.

Third Race—Merrygold, Gold Finch, Fighting Devil, Fencing Abby, Grace Mae.

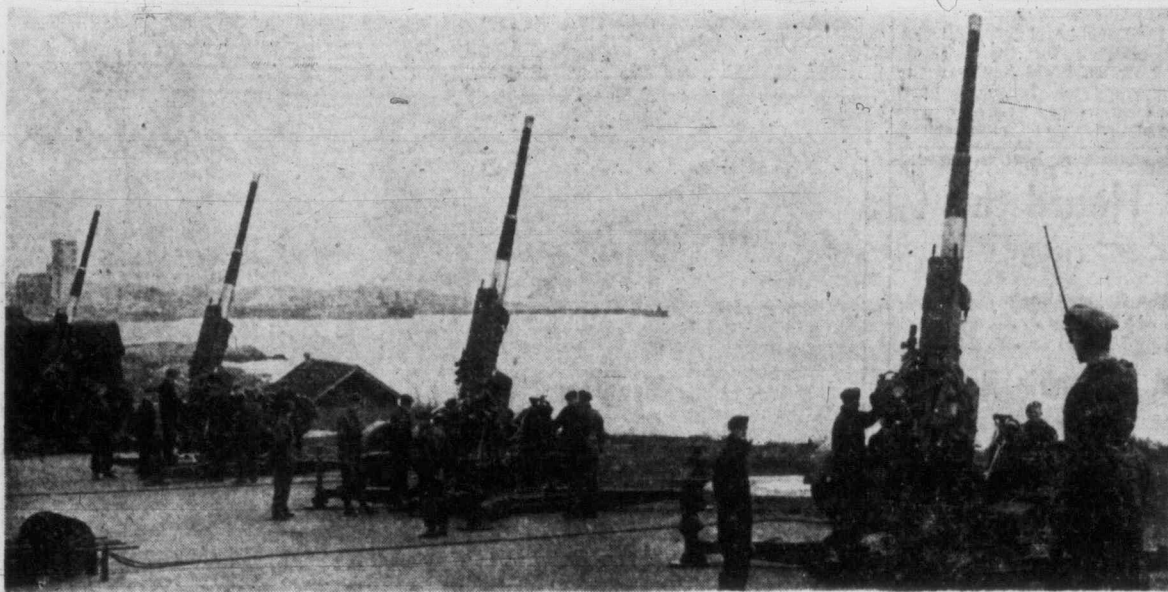

Fourth Race—Fondest Hope, Sure Gift.

Fifth Race—Cheerup, Deep Fen, Bickett.

Sixth Race—Miss B. Weather clear; track heavy.

Victoria Army Force Soon To Number 1,200

By ROY THORSEN

Greater Victoria's army establishment, like that of other cities across the nation, is increasing rapidly.

With more soldiers currently at Work Point Barracks than at any time since the end of World War II, officials today said 1,200 troops will be stationed here within a short time.

Maj. Alex M. Storton, Western Army Command public relations chief, said present strength at Work Point was 800. In that group are the Royal Canadian School of Artillery and two permanent force anti-aircraft batteries.

FORCE AT HIGH LEVEL

But Work Point's force will be reduced starting Monday when the recently formed 119th and 129th batteries of the R.C.A., 600 strong, will start moving into refitted Gordon Head camp. It was necessary to refit the camp to relieve Work Point overcrowding.

Maj. J. A. Cook, senior officer of the Gordon Head camp, commands the 119th Battery, while Maj. W. R. Roberts commands the 129th Battery. Both saw action overseas in World War II.

Maj. Storton said advanced training is progressing satisfactorily. Soldiers of the ack-ack units have been recorded from among the areas throughout the Dominion.

Officers said the men are going through advanced training now and will be on marksmanship training late in March on plane-towed targets off Albert Head. Maj. Storton said all recruits are attached to the artillery school for 11 weeks' training. They then are sent to the batteries for practical and advanced training.

World War II Benefits For Korean Forces

EDMONTON (CP)—All veterans' benefits made available after the Second World War will be extended to those enlisting in the special force for service in Korea, Veterans' Minister Lapointe said today.

Mr. Lapointe said steps are being taken to introduce legislation at the forthcoming session of Parliament which will give statutory authority to orders-in-council assuring various benefits to members of the special force.

Mr. Lapointe is here on a tour of Alberta military hospitals and D.V.A. offices.

Manpower Biggest Problem To Face Coming Session

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent returned to Ottawa Monday to prepare his governmental forces for a parliamentary battle whose opening rounds have already been fired.

The question of Canadian and joint western defence and, within it, the key problem of manpower is expected to dominate the debates of the new House session beginning Jan. 30.

Mr. St. Laurent will muster his cabinet frequently between next week and the House opening to whip together a defence program without precedent in Canadian peacetime history.

A defence budget beyond $1,000,000,000, overseas commitments for Canadian forces and $300,000,000 already authorized are expected to emerge.

This was Works Minister E. C. Carson's reply today to island chambers of commerce which reportedly are planning a "lobbying campaign" for work on "loop" roads in their districts.

An AP dispatch from London today said John J. Campbell, leader of a home-rule-for-Scotland group had demanded a British "Big Three" of himself, Prime Minister Attlee and Winston Churchill.

(The demand, made public by Campbell in letters to the two other principals, was the latest development in the Christmas Day snatching of Britain's Coronation Stone—also known as Scotland's Stone of Destiny. Campbell is head of the Scottish National Covenant Committee.)

If that Indian prime minister don't take a stand pretty soon, he's gonna be classed as a Nehru-do-well.

The doctors' dispute over that little girl's eyes just shows how much medicine has to learn.

I'd be very surprised if the service clubs o' the world took a minute's silence today in honor of Sinclair Lewis.

U.S. Accepts Plans On Korea Cease-Fire

Cease-Fire Plan Moved By Pearson

LAKE SUCCESS (AP)—The United States today accepted a United Nations committee plan for an immediate cease-fire in Korea to be followed by immediate negotiations on all Far Eastern problems by the U.S., Britain, Russia and Communist China.

LAKE SUCCESS (AP)—A United Nations committee today called for an immediate cease-fire in Korea to be followed by immediate negotiations for a settlement of all Far Eastern problems by the United States, Britain, Russia and Communist China.

L. B. Pearson, Canadian Minister of External Affairs, and a member of the three-man cease-fire committee, made the proposal to the 60-country political committee of the U.N. Assembly. It was understood here that the proposals had the backing of the British Commonwealth conference in London.

The cease-fire committee proposed:

1. An immediate cease fire with safeguards against being used by either side for a new offensive.
2. If and when a cease fire is obtained, further steps to restore peace will be considered.
3. All non-Korean armed forces will be withdrawn by appropriate stages from Korea and arrangements will be made for the Korean people to express their own free will in respect of their future government.

4. Temporary arrangements shall be made in accordance with U.N. principles for the administration of Korea and the maintenance of peace and security.

5. As soon as agreement has been reached on a cease-fire, the General Assembly shall set up an appropriate body which shall include representatives of the governments of the United Kingdom, the United States, the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics, and the People's Republic of China with a view to the achievement of a settlement, in conformity with existing international obligations and the provisions of the United Nations charter, of far eastern problems, including (a) the representation of China in the United Nations.

Atomic Weapon Tests Set For Nevada Range

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Atomic Energy Commission announced plans today to test atomic weapons on a closely-guarded bombing range in Nevada.

The experiments will mark the first nuclear explosions in the United States since the first A-Bomb was tested in New Mexico in 1945.

The commission's announcement said President Truman has authorized it to use part of the 5,000-square-mile bombing and gunnery range reservation of the air force near Las Vegas, Nev.

It added: "The use of the Las Vegas bombing and gunnery range will make available to the Los Alamos, N.M., scientific laboratory a readily accessible site for periodic test work with a resultant speed-up in the weapons development program. Test activities at the new site will include experimental nuclear detonation for the development of atomic bombs—so-called A-bombs—carried out under controlled conditions."

The commission added that it will continue to use the Eniwetok proving grounds in the Marshall Islands of the Pacific Ocean.

Red Chinese Proposal For Peace Reported In London

From BUP and AP Dispatches

LONDON—Communist China is reported to have put forward its terms for a cease-fire in Korea.

The final, revised terms are believed to have been presented to the Commonwealth Prime Ministers now in session in London. The London reports cannot be confirmed officially at the moment, but it's said the Peking Communist regime has laid down a three-point cease-fire plan.

The first point is a seat on the United Nations Security Council, the second is withdrawal of foreign troops from Korea, and the final point is opening of discussions on Formosa.

The report on Red China's final terms are understood to have been relayed to Indian Prime Minister Nehru through the Indian Ambassador in Peking.

Meanwhile, informed sources reported Britain and India have proposed a high-level conference between the United States and Communist China to discuss a Korean peace.

Their move had the blessing of the seven other Commonwealth countries represented at the Commonwealth premiers' conference under way here.

The proposed get-together would be under United Nations auspices, the informants said.

Neither the United States nor Red China has so far reacted to the suggestion.

The new move apparently has the support of the leaders of all nine Commonwealth countries who have been discussing the tense situation in the Orient and in the rest of the world in a conference which began here last Thursday.

J. ALBERT GUAY

Slayer Of 23 In Airplane Hangs Tonight

OTTAWA (CP)—The federal government has turned down a request for a stay of execution and a new trial for J. Albert Guay, Quebec jeweler, scheduled to be hanged shortly after midnight tonight for the murder of his wife in the time-bombing of a passenger aircraft.

The announcement was made today by the remission branch of the Secretary of State Department.

Wednesday, counsel for the 33-year-old Guay presented a petition to Justice Minister Garson requesting a stay of execution and a new trial.

The remission branch announced simply that there will be "no interference" with the death sentence.

Two earlier appeals to the Quebec Superior Court had been rejected.

The wreck of the airliner Sept. 9, 1949, took the lives of 23 persons, including Guay's wife.

Czech Bishop's Trial Continues

PRAGUE (AP)—Prague radio said Bishop Jan Vojtasek "tried to diminish his guilt" as he finished testifying today in his trial at Bratislava.

DOMINION TO BUY ALBERTA GOVT. HOUSE

EDMONTON (CP)—Purchase of Alberta's historic government house by the federal government for $350,000 was announced here today by Veterans' Minister Lapointe.

The government will use the big grey stone mansion for a military convalescent home. It has already been leased from the Alberta government at $1 a year for the purpose since 1944.

The building was opened in 1913 and its cost, including grounds, construction and furniture, was reported in 1925 as $345,882.

ONE WOMAN'S DAY

By NANCY HODGES

GYMTORIA AND GOBBLEDYGOOK

MORE THAN ONCE in these columns I have drawn attention to queer new words which have suddenly sprung into being then tacked themselves like barnacles on to the vernacular, and finally become merged into our language. Many of them are based on an odd conception of time-saving, or else have their genesis in somebody's desire to coin a new word to suit a new something or other.

So my roving eye opened a little wider, on coming across the—me—extraordinary and unknown word "gymtoria" in the "letters to the editor" columns of the Free Press of London, Ont. The letter in question was headed "Gymtoria Are Needed."

TAXED BY TAXPAYER

THE WRITER WAS evidently attacking someone who thought "gymtoria" were not needed, or not at ratepayers' expense, as one passage read: "He is unaware that the schools built in the last 20 years have gymtoria and that we, as taxpayers, feel that it is the duty of the city of London to supply such facilities for all the school children in London."

By that time I was beginning to feel that London children had been highly favored for two decades, as compared to the school children of British Columbia, none of whom, to my knowledge, revel in the possession of a gymtoria. So I decided to see if I could find out just what a gymtoria is, to see what our children are missing, as it sounds like some sort of superduper gadget born of the nuclear age.

NOT IN DICTIONARY

AS HAS ALWAYS been my practice when in doubt about a word, I lied me to the dictionary, or rather to several dictionaries, but could find neither "gymtoria" nor anything like it, despite its supposed age. Just as I was about to give up in despair and decide that the London school children were welcome to them, whatever they are, I spied an article in another issue of the Free Press, continuing the controversy.

This was headed "Children Must Have Gymtoriums," which was singular, inasmuch as it looked as if the people of London were as much at odds on the plural of the word as they were on the necessity of its inclusion in school facilities.

ENLIGHTENMENT

HOWEVER, AS THE ARTICLE about "gymtoriums" was written by the president of the London Home and School Council, I took it as authoritative and read it with relish, especially as in it I found enlightenment on the otherwise dark subject. She quotes a school principal thus:

"Much has been said about the use of a gymtorium for physical training, games and community activities but its real use and value as a "teaching tool" is frequently overlooked because this role lacks surface glamour. Actually the modern teacher looks upon a gymtorium as a classroom where self-expression and physical freedom can be encouraged without the difficulties encountered in the narrow confines and seating arrangement of the classroom."

A QUEER HYBRID

AFTER READING that definition I have come to the conclusion that a gymtoria is a queer hybrid, the offspring of a sort of marriage between a gymnasium and an auditorium. Like most hybrids, it sounds a bit of a freak, the sort of child only a parental gymnasium and auditorium could love.

But before that union produces a plurality of offspring which might, conceivably, find their way to Victoria, I hope the Londoners will christen the "gym-tet" and so let the world know its correct name, even if to us it may seem a singular cognomen.

TWO BLACK EYES

WHILE ON THE SUBJECT of words, it seems to me that I can fittingly conclude this column with another allusion, this time to what is known as "gobbledygook." As a staunch advocate of simple language, I revealed in the new tidbit about an English lawyer and a doctor, who were appearing in an assault case at Southend, England.

Dr. John Marney testified in court that the plaintiff was suffering from "bilateral periorbital hematoma and left sub-junctival hemorrhage." The puzzled lawyer said: "Translate that for us ordinary mortals." Whereupon the doctor replied: "Two lovely black eyes!"

Sow Lettuce Now In Heated Sun Porch

By HILDA BEASTALL

When late April rushes into early May with all its outdoor activities, you may find it most helpful to have a few small salad vegetables ready for use.

Leaf lettuce, if grown in a rich soil of compost, will be full of vitamins. Choose a variety such as Grand Rapids Forcing, sow now in a warm greenhouse or heated sun porch. This sowing will give you fine loose-leaved plants in from two to three months. Temperature needs to be only 50 degrees or a little higher.

An early Butterhead-type lettuce is Bibb Forcing, which requires a more even temperature than Grand Rapids, and will take a little longer to mature.

Should you be the fortunate owner of a row of cloches, sow May King variety. It is the earliest of all the Butterhead types and may be grown in a cold frame also, but does not do well in a warm greenhouse.

FOR PARSLEY SEEDLINGS

A few parsley seed sown now will give you seedlings to put out in April, or you may transplant a few to pots, and keep them in a sunny window. By May you'll have plenty of these healthful leaves to cut into salads.

To add real zest to your early salad, mashed potatoes, omelettes, or white sauce, dig up a small clump of chives, now, separate the tiny bulbs, and replant in a box (or flat) of good rich soil. They will soon make sweet, fresh "baby onion" flavoring.

Cut the green tips with scissors, and the bulbs will send up fresh shoots as long as moisture is maintained in the soil. They will benefit from a drink of weak soot water, once they commence vigorous growth.

Remember, your salads will be only as healthful as the soil in which they grow, so use your best compost soil in the flat into which you transplant the seedlings.

Seaward Defences Being Tightened

OTTAWA (CP)—The Defence Department is aiming to complete the complex shield of defences around Canada's main coastal harbors this year.

The work has been proceeding swiftly and in secret at such places at Halifax, St. John's, Nfld., Sydney, N.S., Vancouver, Victoria, and probably Prince Rupert, B.C.

The drive to whip what the Navy calls "seaward defences" into shape has taken on a note of urgency ever since the Korean war broke out and involves all three forces but primarily the Navy.

They are designed to beat off any enemy attacks, either by submarines or surface craft, by a combination of devices, including vast underwater nets, a system of gates, mines and other equipment as well as guns and, in some cases, aircraft.

The Navy says it can't say just how good or comprehensive the defences are going to be because the details are top secret. But they are expected to be both tighter and wider in their scope than anything Halifax or the other ports knew in the second World War.

They would have to be because of great forward strides in submarine developments since the war.

During the past year a number of polio patients from Vancouver Island have received help from the B.C. Chapter, Canadian Foundation for Polio, through the Kinsmen Clubs, many of which have made polio their major peacetime project.

In some island points committees have been set up. Chairmen are: Campbell River, Norm Tipper; Chemainus, Dr. Vere Stewart; Courtenay, Dave Cuthrie; Cumberland, Jack Shilton; Duncan, Geoff Dyson; Lake Cowichan, Allan Anderson; Parksville, George Butler; Port Alberni, Dr. Phil Miller, and Nanaimo, Dr. Ted Best.

Owners Help Pay For Oak Bay Sidewalk

Property owners on the north side of Hamlet Street, between Cadboro Bay Road and Estevan Avenue, Oak Bay, will share in the cost of a local improvement sidewalk on the opposite side of the street.

Provincial cabinet approval has been given a municipal by-law assessing the north side property one-third the share of the cost borne by the south-side property under the Local Improvement Act.

Suggests Education To Cure Canada's Drunk Driving Evil

TORONTO (CP)—Drinking drivers are tough nuts to crack in Canada or any other country, the Liquor Control Board of Ontario says today in a 70-page document.

H. David Archibald, director of research for the L.C.B.O., and Dr. H. Ward Smith of the University of Toronto's pharmacology department, said legislation and enforcement, while extremely important, are not the whole answer.

An improvement of education in the dangers of drinking and driving was suggested.

CENTURY'S MILLIONTH TRAFFIC DEATH IN U.S. DUE THIS YEAR

NEW YORK (AP)—Some American will have the grim honor—probably within the next 12 months—of becoming the 1,000,000th traffic death victim since 1900 in the United States. The Association of Casualty and Surety Companies made the forecast today and called the unfortunate person "Victim X." The association said nearly 964,000 persons have died in traffic since 1900 and that the 1,000,000th victim probably will be recorded next December or early next January.

Mill Turns Logs Into Lumber In One Operation

Prentice Bloedel, extreme right, president of Bloedel, Stewart and Welch Ltd., and H. M. Ryan, managing director of Canadian Western Lumber Co., watch Art

Johnson take lumber from one unit of swede gang mill opened Wednesday in Port Alberni.

Lumbermen Admire Salvage Operation

Grandstand view at opening of B. S. and W. mill at Port Alberni is enjoyed by, left to right: Hon. E. T. Kenney, C. Y. Robson, resident manager of B. S. and W.;

H. J. Welch, M.L.A., James Mowat, M.L.A., and Walter Koerner, Alaska Pine Co., Vancouver.

New Plant At Alberni Will Produce Million Feet Monthly From Waste

By DON INGHAM

More than 100 leading lumbermen and government officials of the province watched with interest Wednesday as the first log went through the newly-opened swede gang mill built by Bloedel, Stewart and Welch Ltd. in Port Alberni.

This mill, an adjunct to the huge plant built by the company 14 years ago, will cut timber that was formerly uneconomical to handle. Starting almost immediately, the company's woods operations will pick up all possible material, and convert it into wood products.

"The construction of this unit commences the attack on the last great area of wood recovery—the material still left on the ground after logging," Prentice Bloedel, company president, said in introducing Hon. E. T. Kenney, Minister of Lands and Forests.

BED FOR NEXT CROP

"This specialization will enable us at one stroke to use more raw material standing on a given acre, improve the efficiency of converting logs of all diameter classes, and leave a better seed bed for the next crop."

Mr. Kenney recalled that in the early days Captain Stamp operated a mill for three years at the same site, then closed up, saying that there was not enough timber on Vancouver Island to support his operation. Now, Mr. Kenney said, mills are producing hundreds of millions of feet of lumber per year.

"I become annoyed when I hear industrialists denounce for making money," he said. "The more money they make the better conditions are for the workers, and when they plow their profits back, as so many do, I see no reason why they should be condemned. I hope once the wheels start here they will never stop rolling."

The whistle Mr. Kennedy sounded to start the mill working has been the property of the Bloedel family for almost 60 years, and therefore carried on the tradition of this family's operations here and in Washington. An outstanding visitor was J. H. Bloedel of Seattle, founder of the company, who started logging near Bellingham 60 years ago.

He is father of the present president, and although 87 years of age still takes an active part in the affairs of the company.

Some of the visitors who proclaimed the mill as first class in every way were H. R. MacMillan, Walter Koerner and H. J. Welch, M.L.A.

EVERYTHING BY MACHINE It is the type of mill that would make old-time operators scratch their heads in complete bewilderment. All work is done by machine, from the time a log leaves the water until it emerges at the far end as finished lumber.

Every saw is safeguarded, the steel and concrete building is fireproof and heated by hot air. It is bright and airy, and the 30-man crew is just as proud of it as the owner.

It is expected to cut 1,000,000 board feet per month on one shift, considered to be excellent production by 30 men cutting small logs.

The 1951 version of a sawmill is a bright, tidy, hot-air heated building of fireproof steel and concrete construction, exemplified in the new swede gang mill opened Wednesday in Port Alberni by Bloedel & Welch Ltd.

Employees push buttons, watch gauges, and pull levers, and electricity does the heavy work in the new mill, finished inside in "eye-easy" green.

As Dennis Brookes, designer, said to Prentice Bloedel, company president, some days ago: "It may not be the best sawmill in the world—but it certainly is the prettiest."

Experts agree the mill is both.

Canadians' Morale In Korea At Tops

Pats Complain 'Gorilla-Hunting' Poor; Some See 'Bit Of Action'

TOKYO (CP)—Canada's senior army officer in the Far East came back from Korea today with the word that the morale of Canadian troops is "incredibly high" and that they're hard as nails and training day and night.

Brig. Frank Fleury said a few Canadians are "seeing a bit of action from time to time" while acting as liaison officers or on the staff of forward British and American formations.

But the Canadian unit itself, the 2nd Battalion of the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry, could only grouse that the "gorilla-hunting"—the search for Korean guerrillas—isn't too good.

Brig. Fleury, chief Canadian liaison officer at Gen. MacArthur's headquarters, said the Patricias are bivouacked in a pine-grove tent camp on the banks of the Miryang River.

Their night guards mount "a vigilant watch over the camp and ammunition dumps and spot the odd flare fired by guerrillas in the hills," he said.

"A few miles north the guerrillas recently raided a village, burning part of it and killing eight civilians and one Korean policeman."

The Patricias, Brig. Fleury said after his first inspection trip, are too busy with training to be concerned about the Chinese Communist push. But they were preparing for anything.

The Korean hillsides shook "with continuous whams of 17-pounder anti-tank guns, heavy mortars and bazookas" and the gushing terror of flame-throwers was also in evidence.

Some 200 people demonstrated before the building of the United States Information Service in Amsterdam Wednesday night, shouting "down with German rearmament" and "down with Eisenhower."

Communists distributed pamphlets near the military barracks here this morning warning Dutch soldiers they would soon have to serve shoulder to shoulder with German troops "who murdered our families, and with the same bandits who plundered and looted our country."

'Swede' Plant Takes Name From Land Of Origin

The Swede gang mill opened Wednesday in Port Alberni, becoming more and more common on the Pacific Coast, derives its name from the country of its origin.

Since big trees are a rarity in Sweden, this type of mill is the only one seen in the country. It was only natural that the mill should be called a "Swede," as is the human import who contributed so much to the lumber industry of this country.

Unlike the usual mill with a circular saw, the Swede gang consists of a battery of straight saws, mounted side by side. The whole log is forced against the saws, and comes out at the other end in planks ready to be trimmed on the edger.

The saws make 370 vertical strokes per minute.

Czechs Say Konev Not In Carlsbad

PRAGUE (AP)—There is no sign that Russian Marshal Ivan Konev is in Karlovy Var (Carlsbad) or has been there lately, inhabitants and visitors in that famous west Bohemian spa said today.

A report circulated in Prague early this week that Konev, commander in chief of Soviet land forces, was in Karlovy Var and has a post similar to that of Soviet Marshal Konstantin Rokossovsky in Poland, where Rokossovsky is minister of national defence.

This could not be confirmed. A Czechoslovakian government spokesman said the idea that Konev had a high command function in this country was "silly." A man who answered the telephone at the Russians' Richmond Hotel was asked if Konev was there. He said, "Not yet."

NO HEAVENLY MESSAGE

Sect Instead Awaits Truancy Summonses

KEREMEOS, B.C. (CP)—The "Children of Light," waiting for a "message from God," today awaited instead summonses from an aroused Keremeos School Board.

For the second straight day, the 35-member cult refused to release eight children from the shuttered stone cottage where it has kept a 17-day vigil to prepare for a heavenly revelation.

A school board spokesman said individual summonses would be served on the parents of the eight children.

Mrs. Agnes Grace Carlson, 50-year-old leader of the sect, said Tuesday and again Wednesday that the children would be sent back to school "tomorrow."

But when school assembled again today, there still were eight empty desks.

There may be one loophole. If Mrs. Carlson takes the case to court. One of the cult members is a former school teacher and the law says that if equal education is provided by a teacher, children are not compelled to attend public school.

"K" Day—for Kingdom—passed Tuesday for the white-robed, hymn-singing group which sleeps in shifts on the floor of the six-room cottage and is existing on bread, sugar, tea and raspberries.

Opposed To New Sport Fishing Tax

Allan McLean of Campbell River Chamber of Commerce informed the Associated Chambers at Victoria Wednesday his group was against the proposal that certain sections of tidal waters around the B.C. coast should be debarred free sport fishing. He regarded it as unfair to allow some parts to remain free while others were penalized. The chambers went on record against sports fishing license by the federal government for tidal water areas.

The High Cost Of B.C.

THE BUDGET OF THE BRITISH Columbia Government, now under preparation, means little except in terms of per capita expenditure. As in all governmental budgets what counts is the amount of money that the average taxpayer must provide.

Measured thus, British Columbia is now spending far more than any province in the history of Canada. It is spending almost twice as much as Ontario, the largest and richest province. This simply means that the average British Columbian is paying far more taxes than the resident of any other part of the nation. He will pay still more if the budget, as predicted, is raised in the next fiscal year. And as a federal taxpayer he will also have heavy tax increases for national defence.

The average per capita expenditure of all provincial governments is about $56. The British Columbia expenditure this year is $94.76.

On a per capita basis the current spending of all provinces is calculated as follows: British Columbia, $94.76; Alberta, $58.23; Saskatchewan, $63.90; Manitoba, $50.33; Ontario, $51.87; Quebec, $44.05; New Brunswick, $55.82;

Nova Scotia, $76.73; Prince Edward Island, $69.11; Newfoundland, $76.40.

Mr. Anscomb and every British Columbia taxpayer would be wise to take a second look at these revealing figures.

In ordinary times it could be argued that the British Columbian can afford to pay far more taxes than any other Canadian and that it is worth this heavy extra cost to live in British Columbia. But these are not ordinary times. They are times of mortal danger to the life of Canada and the whole free world. More and more of the income of all Canadians will have to go into armaments and every dollar taken by a provincial (or a municipal) government is a dollar which cannot go into defence. It is, moreover, a dollar bidding against the consumer for goods and helping to raise prices.

Under these conditions it cannot be argued that the British Columbian should pay still more provincial taxes or that the Provincial Government can afford to increase its budget. If any British Columbian doubts this today he will not doubt it tomorrow when he faces the nation's defence bill.

Britain Gropes For Unity

WITH THAT SURE INSTINCT which has brought them through centuries of trial, the British people are uniting against a foreign enemy. But even the infinitely flexible machinery of British politics so far has been unable to adjust itself satisfactorily to the present crisis. A government hanging in Parliament by the thread of a few Labor votes, an Opposition containing, in men like Churchill and Eden, the highest ability and longest experience in public affairs and yet unable to exercise them in office—this is a situation of weakness in politics which denies and frustrates strength in the nation.

No wonder, therefore, that the British people are turning toward their traditional solution in times of danger, a coalition government, a cabinet of all the talents, especially the unequalled talents of Churchill. For the moment, however, that solution seems impossible.

The Labor party remembers too well when it was the prisoner and puppet of the Conservative party in the coalition of 1931, an experience it does not wish to repeat. As the London Economist observes, a strong wing of the Labor party seems to hate the Tories more than it hates the Russians. If Mr. Attlee invited the Conservative party to join him he would split his own party, drive many of his followers into Opposition and quarrel openly with the trade unions.

Alternatively Mr. Attlee could seek a clear working majority through a general election but he has little hope of getting it. And if the Conservatives came back with a small majority, which is all they could expect, they would be in Mr. Attlee's present position—perhaps a worse position for they would have to face an angered trade union movement and the danger of serious labor disputes, which the present Government can largely escape.

If the existing uneasy balance is to remain in Parliament, if the Government is to govern without a real majority, it can hope to achieve complete national unity only if it alters its course in domestic affairs. It cannot go farther with the Socialist program, which half the nation has rejected at the polls, and much of which the nation obviously cannot afford now, without creating more domestic disunity, dangerous to the whole defence and foreign policy. Under these conditions the next few months will test the abilities of Mr. Attlee and the political genius of the nation to the full.

Arms Will Lend Authority

GENERAL DWIGHT EISENHOWER spoke heartening words as he arrived in France to assume command of the Western European force with which it is hoped to deter Russian aggression. Receiving from France the first contingent of the men who will help to form a 12-nation defence force, the General declared "There is nothing which the nations of the Atlantic community cannot achieve." He tackled that home with the warning, "Let those who might be tempted to put this power to the test ponder well the lessons of history. The cause of freedom can never be defeated."

The free world welcomes such sentiments. It would welcome them even more if Eisenhower had at his command a well-equipped force of 100 divisions instead of the handful actually available at present. The West's strength will grow—aided by relatively small contributions such as Canada's promise of a division now in training, and the tremendous effort of the United States indicated in President Truman's request to Congress. But in the interim it is idle to deny that Russia can name the day and the place at which war may commence, and do it at her convenience.

Obviously, speed is essential, along with a clear understanding of which battlegrounds to avoid. Prestige and principle demand the employment of force at certain danger spots—also which have been dated and located by Moscow's decision. Korea, the most active at the moment, could become a quagmire in which the West could struggle until its dispirited strength left it an easy prey for Russia. It must never be forgotten that Europe is the major asset—its loss the major threat.

Appointment of a leader of Eisenhower's stature has shown recognition of that fact. But it will mean nothing if heavy Western rearmament does not put real significance into his words.

The City Can Help Itself

PROVIDED DEFENCE COSTS SET by the Federal Government do not make it imperative for municipal governments to give taxpayers specific relief through a reduction in the mill rate, the argument set forth by certain members of the City Council this week will remain essentially sound. The aldermen in question have proposed that Victoria's tax rate remain untouched. They argue that if material or manpower is lacking to do work which would eat up all the taxes, surplus should be earmarked for specific jobs which would otherwise have to be financed by borrowing.

So far Victoria has not used the powers it received from the Legislature some years ago to create special accounts for special projects to be undertaken in the future. Instead it has followed the course of borrowing when major jobs had to be done and is burdened by one of the highest per capita debts among cities of comparable size in Canada.

Subject to the need for relief to taxpayers at the municipal level, should Dominion financial demands require such action, the "nest egg" system of preparing for future needs has much to commend it. In the first instance it would avoid further increases in debt carrying charges. In the second place it would help drain off money which is now an element fostering inflation through competitive bidding for consumer goods in short supply.

Victoria must keep an eye on national demands upon the taxpayers' purse, but if the system proposed by some of the aldermen is feasible in view of those demands, it represents a sound means of bringing the city into a much healthier financial condition. That, surely, is worth a little sacrifice now.

Let's Not Be Squatters

VIRTUALLY EVERYONE WHO "owns" a house and lot, or any other real estate in Greater Victoria, must feel exceedingly incognit today. Where they presumed they had clear title to their property, or at least a reasonable equity, they find, on the authority of Andy Paul, president of the North American Brotherhood, that they are merely squatters. The land, Mr. Paul says, belongs to the Indians and they have never been paid for it by present occupants.

This is a startling picture to view against the unrolled scrolls Mr. Paul has acquired to prove his claim. Under the circumstances, Greater Victorians have only two avenues to pursue. In the first instance, they should equate property values here to those on Manhattan Island and deliver payment to the Indians on the basis of the multiple of $11 which the white settlers paid for the heart of New York City, or they should search archeological remains. The latter research could justify them in offering the present claimants what the Indians paid for the land to those who preceded them.

If we are in debt to our predecessors, let's discharge it—up to the extent of $11.

Chips Off The Old Brock

By DAVID BROCK

IT IS often said, but not nearly often enough, that we stand in some danger of forgetting how to read, now that we are educated with pictures, and entertained with pictures, and notified, informed, and persuaded by pictures. Any advertising man will tell you that it is dangerous to assume that people can read, and most editors and teachers will back him up. The cream of the jest is that while some advertisers and editors and teachers complain about the growth of illiteracy, this growth is their own, along, course, with Hollywood, now aided and abetted by television.

Art, of course, is perfectly splendid as decoration, or to enliven a page, or even to emphasize a main point. It is also of great use in making plain some technical process, a detail of construction, and the like. But as almost a sole means of communication it is a silly thing, and a poverty-stricken one. It is kids' stuff. And it shouldn't be kids' stuff, either, for kids should be learning to love printed words and understand their usefulness. Nor will kids be able to talk much if they don't know how to read much.

THE vocabulary remains the only connection between real minds, and the decay of the North American vocabulary is only a little greater than that of the British or French vocabularies. (I cannot speak for other languages.) Those three vocabularies have become muddy, and are getting worse. As Professor Raleigh pointed out more than 30 years ago, you cannot find the thoughts, there are so many weeds round them. Robert Graves says, quoting the Romans of two thousand years ago, that bad prose is the result of bad thinking. But it works the other way, too; it must, since you have to possess the tools of thought . . . and keep them sharp.

I HAVE no cure to offer. It may be past curing now. But it occurs to me that if you are going to teach children to read by means of pictures, then you had better teach them to write by means of pictures as well, if you don't want them to be inarticulate little rabbits. You may also split their personalities by teaching them that you send messages by words but receive them by pictures. I know a good many young personalities badly in need of splitting, in order to spread the burden and the damage as wide as possible, but I don't think a whole generation needs this treatment or would be the better for it.

SO LET us get some Red Indians into the schools, with a few Egyptians and cave-men, and teach the little devils how to express themselves in pictures. In High School (if show my respect by giving it capital letters) we could go in for photography, teaching our young overgrown slob how to write a letter by means of snapshots. It would be a lot better than not writing letters at all, which is what they do now. Even the middle-aged have more or less stopped writing letters, especially the letters it is their duty to write. For conversation, a sign-language would do very well, and would have the advantage of silence in an age that gets noisier and noisier the less it says. And any conversation would be refreshing (and indeed an intellectual exercise) after the modern conversation which consists mainly of "Hi!" and "What?"

CHILDREN'S BOOKS

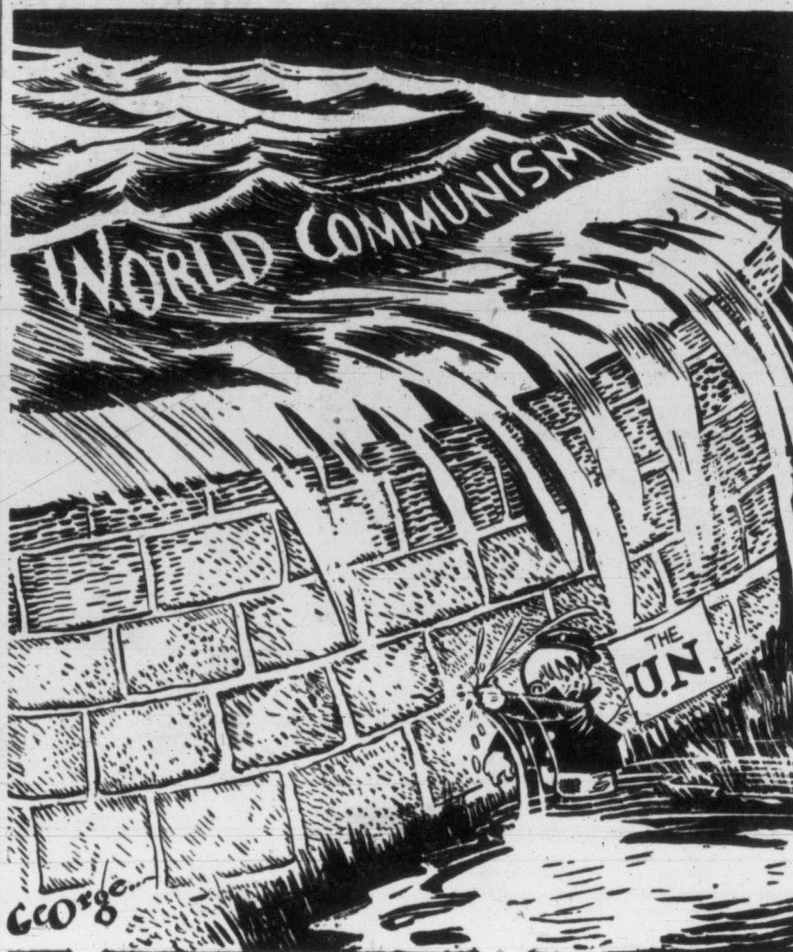

SOME children do still read books, of course, bless them or heaven pity them. I don't know which. Or rather, I do know which, but I am told on all sides that I err. In my opinion, the two best books for children in this generation have been "The Hobbit" by J. R. R. Tolkien (George Allen & Unwin, $2.00), and "The Wind on the Moon," by Eric Linklater (Macmillan, $1). "The Hobbit" was first published in 1937, and the other in 1944, but they are both still very much in print, and long may they remain so. I should think "The Hobbit" would appeal to anyone from 7 to 107, and "The Wind on the Moon" to the same group. You can't say that about many books for children.

I HAVE read "The Hobbit" twice to myself for my own pleasure as well as aloud many times, and I have given away several copies and ever more shall do so. The Linklater book was new to me this year, but next Christmas I shall boost its sales considerably. Tolkien is a complete master on the subject of dragons, dwarves, goblins, elves and the like: they really come alive. And Linklater is a master of humor, so that he can have seven-year-olds laughing with grown-ups. Not even Lewis Carroll could do that, with his eye-and-a-half on the parents all the time.

Speaking of juvenile fiction, a young daughter of mine was given a book of South African yarns called "The Long Grass Whiskers." It is about wild animals. But she insists it is "The Long Grass Whiskers," and she still vainly awaiting the entrance of Santa Claus into the bush or onto the veldt.

I WAS reading "The Water Babies" to an eight-year-old last year. Does anyone still read that? The little boy was bored and annoyed by the digressions and the moralizing, and conceived a lasting hatred for the Rev. Charles Kingsley. When I told him Kingsley had been a parson, he said, "He must have been a darn rotten one; then." So I told him what Cardinal Newman said: "Away with you, Mr. Kingsley," and he enjoyed that, at least.

Holding The Flood

As Our Readers See It

GUIDING THE LEADERS

In his book "American Commonwealth," James Bryce has this to say: "The choice of one man against another is an imperfect way of expressing the mind of a constituency. The action of opinion is continuous; that of voting occasional, and in the interval between the elections of legislatures, changes may take place materially affecting the views of voters."

The voters of Central Saanich might like to be reminded of this ere they disband their ratepayers' association in the mistaken belief that now secession has been obtained there is no further use for it. An active association would provide a continuing vehicle through which voters could express their views and define what results they expected from the administration of their affairs in municipal, provincial or federal fields. It is not within the competence of the people to say how these results are to be obtained. This is the function of the executive appointed by the elected members whose duty it would be to see that the methods employed gave the people the results their policy demanded.

Those elected would always seek their policy from those who elected them and for that reason an association would be a mutual benefit, each supporting the other.

If we permit those elected to decide policy we delegate power and leave the way open to dictatorship or the imposition of a policy contrary to our interests.

Legislators today are like sandwich men, pressed between the demand of the people for improvements and the demands of finance to balance the budget by imposing heavier taxes to meet rising costs. Sooner or later a showdown is inevitable, and when it comes our elected members will become the spearhead of a natural demand that what is physically possible must be made financially possible without confiscation.

What therefore each candidate should answer is: "What is he prepared to do when the sources of taxation are dried up and he is unable to lessen expenditure on essential services?"

CORONATION STONE

Not having the remarkable erudition of some of your correspondents who appear to be able to tell us all about the beginning of the universe without the necessity of quoting any other authority than themselves, I would like, in reply to Mr. Morrison's letter, humbly to quote Mr. F. R. A. Glover, M.A., who wrote the Coronation Stone in 1961.

He mentions a "Prophetic" rune in the Irish Celtic Dialect (not Latin as has been stated in some quarters) which he states was attached to this stone for some 2,400 years. The Rune is as follows:

Clonidh Scuit saor an fine
Man ha breag an fais dine

English Spoken Here

The Times of London

BOYS and girls of all ages will unhesitatingly take the tip, given by the Head Master of Eton, that English is a certain choice for the Common Language of Europe.

He heeded a little by confessing to a personal weakness for French as favorite, but this bias may be overlooked in a teacher of youth especially since he comes down with emphasis on the right side, saying that, if there is to be a race at all, English must be winner.

No article of faith is held more firmly in Britain, unless it be that there are no native cooks, than that, as linguists,

Mar a oh fulghid an LIA FAIL

Dilghid flaitheas do grabhail. Apparently Sir Walter Scott, quite pardonably, translated the word "Scuit" as Scottish, whereas, according to the above authority it is stated in O'Donovan's Irish dictionary to mean "A Wanderer."

The free translation given by Scott would then read: Unless the fates are faithless grown And Prophets voice be vain Where'er is found the Sacred Stone The Wanderers' Race shall reign.

Mr. Glover also states that the word "Phail" is a Hebrew word meaning "wonderful" so that "Lia Phail" (or Fail) would be Stone Wonderful.

It is difficult to understand why any sensible Scotsman should object to the "Stone" being in the Coronation Chair of Britain in view of the fact that King George VI is descended from the Stuarts and hence through Fergus from Princess Tea Tephi who married the Irish King Eochaid circa 580 B.C., especially as a United Commonwealth is the main hope of peace in the world today.

... AND HISTORY

Perhaps the Stone of Scone now rests upon the tomb of King David of Scotland, grandson of Robert Bruce who was defeated and killed at Halidon Hill in 1333, by the English. That was a battle for religion, and the battleground would be a fitting resting place for that stone.

The Stone of Israel, mentioned by Mr. C. W. Deans, and appearing in our Bible in Genesis and Daniel II, is a stone "not cut by human hands," as Daniel tells us.

We still have, in Scotland, "The Burning Stone," beside which the Stone of Scone is very modern indeed. "The Burning Stone" of the Gael, also was never cut or touched by human hands. Its meaning was preserved in the Gaelic and Greek alphabets until the Romanization of language and of history became the vogue, after 331 A.D. That is why the unconquered Gaels, and their language, were ruthlessly exterminated over so long a period.

The Gaelic Celts spoke and still speak a guttural language, unlike the non-guttural language of the Jews and Egyptians. The Celtic trail is from Cathay—or Cathness—across the English Channel, into France, Germany, Spain, Portugal, Italy, Switzerland, across the Alps, down the Danube, into the Balkans, and into the Middle East. The so-called An Gals and Saxons were a branch of this same race.

Incidentally there was no letter "X" in the language of the Saxons, and no "G" in old Gaelic. Hence "Suessone" and "Caledonia." England was Terra Anglorum or in Gaelic "Teir-An-Gal," the land of the Gael.

Sinclair Lewis

IF THE critics of the day are to be believed, we have entered upon another period in which thinly disguised "biographies" are a popular fictional vehicle. The Hollywood product, "All About Eve," recently shown in Victoria, has been permanently tagged, despite official denials, as a Bette Davis recreation of an interlude in the life of Tallulah Bankhead. At the same time, we have Budd Schulberg's book-of-the-month, "The Disenchanted," which, without authority, has been firmly declared to be the story of the late novelist, F. Scott Fitzgerald.

Such charges of plagiarism of personality—if we may employ such a phrase—add interest to the book or movie concerned. But they provide a pitfall for the critic who finds fault with the work on the grounds that it does not faithfully portray the exact character or the precise experiences of the person whom, despite the author's denials, he insists it describes. A book or play that makes no claims to biographical significance, despite a more than coincidental similarity, should be allowed to stand on its own merits.

OWN CREATION

For Sinclair Lewis, who died in Rome yesterday at the age of 66, such considerations could have had little more than academic interest. George Babbitt the character who became even better known than the author, was not one man but a generation. Lewis did not copy him, he created him. But the material of creation was humanity itself, 1920 model. No critic stood up and claimed Babbitt is so-and-so. But hundreds of thousands of North American men, had they dared to brave ridicule, could have admitted "George Babbitt is I."

There were strange paradoxes in the life of this great writer, the first American to win the Nobel Prize for literature. Despite his periodic peregrination in Europe. He never really shook the dust of Sauk Center, Minnesota, from his feet. His interest was the trivia of American daily life, even though he preferred Italy as a place in which to write about it.

VICTOR AND VICTIM

In his heyday, Lewis' beat was Main Street. He trod it seemingly alone, and he left no folly unnoticed, no foible unexplored. Yet the man who made the balding, back-slapping, service-conscious, kindly, platitudinous "little" businessman a prototype of his era, himself fell victim to the way of life he so derided. His books became "musts" for the people he described. "Reading Sinclair Lewis" became a part of Babbitt. No author ever suffered a more ironic victory.

Though he delighted in exposing Main Street and Babbitt and the babblings of The Man Who Knew Coolidge, Lewis could be even tougher in his comments. "Arrowsmith" and "Elmer Gantry" were loaded with a full charge. Even in the noisy twenties their explosion was outstanding. It took a new decade and a new era of Weltpolitik to dull their echoes.

With "It Can't Happen Here" Lewis recognized that new era in the 'mid-thirties. But he did not again reach the heights.

It was significant that the novel Sinclair Lewis was working on at his death was to be called "Courage." In almost all of his works there was a character, often minor, who unswervingly fought the good fight and kept faith with his ideals. Lewis saw well what qualities his people could shed without loss; but he also understood what they should keep.—B.A.T.

Ups And Downs

By BRIAN A. TOBIN

"IT'S a funny thing," said the Elevator Man, "but when you stop to think of it, nearly all the most important things in our lives happen when we aren't paying much attention. For instance we get our schooling when we're young, and not in the mood to be serious about it. Most of us have to choose a career before we've even had a taste of one to help us in our choice, and in many cases right at a time when money for next Saturday's dance seems more important than what we'll be working for 20 years later. But even more striking than that, we build our whole personalities and characters in the early years when we never give the process a thought. At a time when the whole future course of our existence is being shaped, when the 'person' we're going to be is being formed, we play around with the job as though we hadn't a care in the world. It's as though we turned over to a bunch of young puppies the decision as to what the human race should be like. Going up!"

"Fortunately," said the Elevator Man, "most of the youngsters do a fairly good job of laying the foundation for a man. Even though they do it flippantly, even carelessly, they construct a decent mold. The hot stuff of life that's poured in afterwards takes on a good enough shape. It's not until long afterwards, when they feel the mold setting more and more firmly each year until the form is hardened and fixed for life, that they wonder if they mightn't have done a better job. Maybe they should have rubbed off a corner here, sharpened an angle there, made a rounder, fuller personality to spend their declining years with. Going down!"

"Lots of us, though," said the Elevator Man, "are pretty well satisfied. Maybe you remember the story of the speaker who declared, 'I was born an Englishman. I have lived an Englishman. I hope to die an Englishman.' And from the back of the hall came a rich burr: 'Foot mon; hae ye no ambition?'"

Associated Commerce Chambers Solid In Fight For Extending Island Roads

A new effort to have the highways of Vancouver Island extended is being made by the Associated Chambers of Commerce. At an executive meeting in Victoria yesterday a new roads committee under the chairmanship of George Benwell, Nanaimo, and with Harold Husband, Victoria, as vice-chairman, was appointed.

Many Complain Of Island Mail

Mail service on Vancouver Island was the subject of much criticism at the Victoria meeting of the Associated Chambers of Commerce Wednesday. H. E. Stafford of Sayward staged members by saying that it took as long as seven days for mail to go from Sayward to Courtenay. "One parcel recently took 16 days to travel from Sayward to Duncan," another said it took 14 days for a letter to reach Cape Mudge from Campbell River—a matter of two miles.

To Get Service Pay

Fifty-eight members of the Victoria Police Department with over five years' service will get service pay costing the city $4,785.90 in 1951, according to Chief J. Blackstock. With the pay will go service stars.

14,000,000 Population Mark Already Reached

Nearly Double Figure At Start Of World War I; Decline Predicted After 1990

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada's population has hit the 14,000,000 mark, nearly double the figure at the start of the First World War.

Government officials confirmed today that the figure has been reached. It compares with the 7,200,000 people in Canada in the 1911 census, last before the First World War.

The 11,500,000—2,500,000 less than now—Canada had in the 1941 census, after the start of the Second World War. The figure of 15,000,000 Canadians by 1990, of 14,600,000 by 1971 predicted by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics in 1946.

The 1946 prediction, on the basis of facts then available, was that the Canadian population, barring future wars, immigration and other unpredictable events, would reach a maximum of 15,000,000 around 1990 and thereafter decline slowly. This prophecy of eventual decline, still valid, is based on knowledge that a general decline in both fertility and mortality has set in over the past 100 years in the western nations.

The Bureau of Statistics forecast in November that Canada would probably celebrate Christmas, 1950, as a nation of 14,000,000 people. A population boosted by immigration and a buoyant economy had hit 13,921,000—just 79,000 short—on Sept. 1. It had been going up at a monthly rate of 25,000 to 26,000 over a 12-month period.

Bureau officials said today they don't know the exact date. Methods of resuscitation in cases of drowning and asphyxiation were introduced by Marshall Hall, English doctor who died in 1857.

PIONEER LIFESAVER

Methods of resuscitation in cases of drowning and asphyxiation were introduced by Marshall Hall, English doctor who died in 1857.

Mr. Benwell said that there was nothing wrong with the basic policy which included the extension of the highway to Tofino and Sayward as well as various loop roads.

Two M.L.A.'s, D. J. Proudfoot, Victoria, and Arthur Ash, Saanich, attended the meeting, and Mr. Proudfoot expressed the view that they could succeed only as a team. "Too often in the past approaches have been made to the cabinet without the aid of local M.L.A.'s being notified. We are often called in only when the cabinet has turned the matter down," went on Mr. Proudfoot. "That's all wrong. You should call on the M.L.A.'s in the first place, and I must insist that you do this."

"We now want the road machinery kept on the island to tackle the other necessary jobs we have in mind," he said.

CHILLICOTHE, Mo. (AP)—Police had trouble identifying one of the two motor cars involved in a traffic accident. The owner, Otto Behmer, 70, explained that the one he was driving was a 1920 Revere touring car. Police took his word for it. The Revere sustained a dent in the fender.

Do You Know Any of these People and Their Interesting Health Stories?

See if Any of Your Friends Are Here From Other Towns

Mrs. L. Quaise of 338 Spencer St. Medicine Hat, Alta.: "I must tell you of the wonderful results I've had using Sarnak. I used to be tired, depressed and suffered with indigestion and backache. I tried various things but nothing seemed to help. After taking Sarnak for a short time I feel fine, relieved of pain and indigestion. My husband also takes Sarnak and he too thinks highly of this medicine. We think other people should learn of this fine remedy."

Mrs. C. Wallace, Lethbridge, Alta.: "I can't praise Sarnak enough for what it has done for me. For years I've suffered with sore back and stomach upsets. Every morning my stomach acted up and I felt weak all the time. After taking two bottles of Sarnak I got relief from my troubles and now feel fine thanks to Sarnak. I've told my friends about Sarnak and they too are using it. I can only say the best for this medicine."

Mrs. L. F. Wolfe, 270 W. 48th Ave., Vancouver, B. C.: "Before taking Sarnak I felt tired, rundown and my appetite was poor. This condition caused me to try various things during the past two years that were supposed to help, but nothing I did gave me the results that Sarnak has given. After taking Sarnak for two weeks my appetite has improved about 100 per cent and I feel fine. I highly recommend Sarnak to anyone else who suffers as I did and hope this little note will be read by others and that they too will try this fine product."

L. B. Sueden of Camrose, Alta.: "Sarnak is the only medicine that has given me relief. For years I've suffered with severe pain in my hips. At times it was almost impossible to get out of bed. I had been told that no medicine would do me any good but after taking one bottle of Sarnak I am now feeling fine."

Mrs. W. G. Taylor of 521 1/2 Giroux St., St. Boniface, Man.: "I appreciate what Sarnak has done for me. For three years my back has been giving me trouble and recently I read about your new medicine and decided to try it. My backache was relieved within two days. I got my husband to start taking Sarnak and he too has benefited. I hope Sarnak helps others as it has helped us."

Mrs. Frances Dawson, Brentwood Bay, B.C.: "I am a housewife and for five years I have suffered with a kidney disorder. I have tried in different ways to get relief. After only one bottle of Sarnak, I feel much better and recommend it highly to others suffering from kidney trouble. I am starting my second bottle now and wouldn't want to be without Sarnak for the world. I only have high praise for this medicine."

No Way Of Finding When Soviets Intend To Fight

April To September Months Of Greatest Danger Says European Observer; Reds Ready

By WES GALLAGHER

NEW YORK (AP)—Will the Russians provoke a war? When? What do you do about it?

Despite their seeming lethargy, these three questions give Europeans the same nightmares they give people in the Western Hemisphere today.

No one knows positive answers to these questions, including the so-called Russian "experts," but if you live next door to the Russians in Europe—as I have since the end of the last war—the answers go like this:

1. The Soviet Union is apt to blunder through an aggressive act into a world war rather than start one deliberately.

2. The greatest war danger period since 1939 is from April through September of this year.

3. You must fight in Europe as long as you can, no matter how little you have.

It is useless to speculate on whether the Kremlin is planning a deliberate all-out attack. This would be the most closely kept secret in the most closely guarded country in the world. The best intelligence agencies in the world frankly admit they would not likely obtain such top-secret information. The best they hope for would be a few days' warning of a possible attack by evidence such as troop dispositions, build-ups and similar movements.

On this count they all say there has been no significant change in troop dispositions along the Iron Curtain through Europe in the last year or two. But the Russians always have had enough there to overrun Europe. It would only need an order and minor shifts to send them into action.

The argument that the Russians would not attack because they are "getting what they want without it" does not hold water.

Hitler was getting all he needed in Europe in 1939 without war. He had the continent economically in the palm of his hand. He needed only to be patient. But he wasn't. He miscalculated that the west would not fight.

The danger seems to be that the Russians will not be patient, that they will make the same miscalculation of the west and that they will make one more aggressive grab in Europe that will touch off a war just as Hitler's invasion of Poland did.

The western military situation in Europe can not get worse; it can only get better. Therefore it may be felt from the Soviet point of view 1951 would be the year to strike.

The big deterrent is the atom bomb, which Winston Churchill believes is the only thing now stopping the Soviet from embarking on an all-out world conquest.

COLEMAN'S COLUMN

By JIM COLEMAN

This is the season when the National Turf Advisers follow the birds, southbound to Florida and similar allegedly warm climes. Officers of the constabulary, and other congenial knockers, refer sneeringly to the National Turf Advisers as "touts." Members of the N.T.A. naturally resent this slur and, in order to avoid being contaminated by association with policemen, they will break into a trot any time that the paws of a policeman's brogans appear around the corner of a building.

The members of the N.T.A. perform a certain useful function around race tracks. A National Turf Adviser will pick a horse for a vacillating client who cannot make up his own mind concerning the horse on which he should wager. Of course, certain unscrupulous Turf Advisers sometimes select six or seven horses for six or seven different clients in the very same race.

This practice isn't exactly illegal but purists among the members of the N.T.A. insist that it is slightly unethical. About this time of year, a snowbound northern Turf Adviser usually finds himself short of scratch to finance his Florida business-vacation. However, Turf Advisers are resourceful fellows, many of whom have been old carnival stick-men or the operators of flat-joints.

And He Will, Too

One of the time-honored methods of financing a southern expedition is known as "Paying The Snooze."

The Turf Adviser will board a railway day coach and select a likely-looking sucker. The Turf Adviser will sit down next to the sucker and settle himself for a nap.

Just before closing his eyes, the Turf Adviser turns to the sucker and hands him a wallet. "Sir," he will say. "I am going to take a little snooze and I'd like you to hold my wallet for me."

The Turf Adviser feigns slumber but, actually, he keeps one eye opened slightly in case the sucker forgets about the wallet.

Finally, just about 10 minutes before the train reaches a station, the Turf Adviser very ostentatiously will awake and stretch himself. He will redeem his wallet from the sucker.

"That was very kind of you," he will say graciously. "Now, YOU take a little nap and I will hold YOUR wallet!"

Ears Are Precious

When several Turf Advisers are traveling together, they will surround a prosperous-looking prospect and, genially, invite him into a poker game in the smoker.

Of course, no sucker could fall for this dodge if he had read the advice that the late Damon Runyon received from his father.

"Son," Mr. Runyon told his boy. "Some day you're going to meet a man who will tell you that he can make the nine of spades jump right out of a pack of cards and squirt milk in your ear."

"Never bet against that man, son," said Runyon Sr., "for, as sure as all-get-out, you're going to get an earful of milk."

Well, one of the Turf Advisers is a fellow who can make the nine of spades jump right out of the pack and squirt milk in your ear.

He will deal four aces to the sucker who will be properly elated. And, then, the dealer will give four kings to another Turf Adviser who is in the game.

Naturally, the sucker will wager his entire bankroll on his hand. (They are playing stud-poker and he can see that his opponent has no more than four kings.)

Stay Away From Trains

When the betting has ceased, the sucker will flop his hand and declare, triumphantly, "Four aces."

The Turf Adviser solemnly will declare his own hand of "Four kings" and will rake in the pot.

The sucker will scream that he is being fleeced. Patiently, the Turf Adviser will explain to him that four kings ALWAYS beat four aces.

Eventually, the argument will grow so heated that, under gentle prodding, the sucker will ask the train conductor to arbitrate the dispute.

"Which hand wins," sucker will ask the conductor confidently, "Four aces or four kings?"

The conductor will reply, "Four kings beat four aces."

The sucker will be agast but not speechless. "Four aces," he will explode, "beat four kings anywhere in the world."

"Not," the conductor will say, grabbing the sucker by the coat collar, "on THIS train!"

Sorry we haven't enough space to tell you about "Playing The Buffalo." If you'll excuse us now, The Good Kid and Johnny Needle-Nose and I are just going out to look for a stockyard and a likely-looking sucker. As The Good Kid says, we'll have to "Play The Buffalo" three-handed.

Sailors May Withdraw From Junior Ice League

Navy of the Island Junior Hockey League sank to the bottom of the sea last night at the Memorial Arena as the Victoria Vics outgunned them 4 to 2. Tars slipped beneath the Nainimo Native Sons who have been in Davy Jones locker all season.

Bob Fowler was the fair-haired lad for the Vics as he hammered

Victoria Vics	W	L	T	F	A	P
Nainimo	9	3	1	32	24	371
Navy	4	7	0	34	51	394

in three goals, one in each period. Hustling Bob McConechy garnered the fourth tally on a pass from Art Green late in the last period.

Sailors, whose ranks are being cut to ribbons by sea drafts, dressed only 12 players and coach Joe Connor stated that unless the situation changes, they may have to withdraw from the league. In addition, star centre-man Roy Derry watched the game from the bench due to an injured collarbone.

With Fowler doing the honors, Vics built up a 2 to 0 lead before McCubbin tallied for Navy, beating McConechy cleanly with a bullet drive from the boards in the third frame. However, goals by Fowler and McConechy, more than equalized this effort. Rangy "Bunker" Hill, a tower of strength all night for the sailors, potted the final goal of the game

PRIOR HERO OF FEEDMEN'S CAGE VICTORY

Dunks Winning Shot In Waning Seconds Of Game

A small crowd was treated to an interesting evening of basketball at the Vic High gym last night when Scott and Peden notched a 33 to 32 victory over Fletchers in the men's senior B game.

The Feedmen had no assurance of a win right up to the last second. Their one-point advantage came on a foul shot netted by Bill Prior with only six seconds left. A minute or two before, Lou McCorkall had tied up the game for Clothiers.

Neither team had more than a sixpoint edge at any time during the tilt, and they fought evenly right up to the finish.

Top scorers were Prior (10) for Feedmen and McCorkall (14) for Fletchers.

GIRLS PLEASE

In the senior women's game, Arrow Furniture got off on the wrong foot and trailed Macdonalds through the first two quarters, but staged a real reversal in the last half to win 41 to 25.

Down 14 to 8 going into the third quarter, Arrows turned on the heat, retrieved the seven points and went on to build up a margin of 16 points before the end.

McNutt's Loggerettes nudged Forresters 32 to 28 in a close junior girls opener.

Line-ups follow:
Forrester-Gee Derr 4, Joyce 10, Bombardier 2, Davidson 6, Hen 2, Lamont 2, Dobosky 2, Jones, Total 38.

Draw Nearly Complete For 'Spiel Finals

NIPAWIN, Sask. (CP)—Fourteen skips are on their marks today for the two-group, 16-rink, knockout series leading to the major prize in Nipawin's fifth annual automobile bonspiel.

The other two spots will come from the winners of the matches between Bob Kramer of Regina and Pete Hume of Flin Flon, Man.; and Buster Orloff of Prince Albert, Sask. and Rusty Govenlock of Nipawin. They are battling for berths into the fours of No. 4 event. The winners will go into B group.

Late Wednesday night, E. Wright of Aylsham, Sask. and H. Duncan of Leask, Sask., gained the fours in the No. 4 division.

In group A are: Wright, Duncan; W. Taylor, Rivers, Man.; Ole Olson, Edmonton; Garnet Campbell-Avonlea, Sask.; Dave Mott, Nipawin; Leo Johnson, Winnipeg; and Lawrence Borreson of Antler, Sask.

In group B are: Howard Wood, Winnipeg; Billy Duncan, Virden, Man.; Frank Wolfe, Edmonton; Grant Watson, Winnipeg; Frank Kleffman, Hibbing, Minn.; and Jimmy Welsh of Winnipeg.

Probably the biggest upset in the whole 'spiel was the side-tracking of the Billy McTavish rink of Wipower. The power-packed foursome finally shunted down to No. 4 event—the last hope for gaining a playoff berth—was beaten 10 to 8 by Wright of Aylsham.

Charles Reveals Mystic Powers

By JACK HAND

NEW YORK (AP)—It was the uptown gym in Harlem. Two or three writers who came uptown to see Ezzard Charles finish training for Friday's fight at Madison Square Garden with Lee Oma made conversation.

The champ talked slowly, picking his words carefully. No, he never saw Oma fight. Not even on television. Nor the movies. Didn't go to fights much, unless a friend was fighting.

"What's this I hear about you being a hypnotist?" somebody asked.

There was a deep chuckle from the back of the room. Lloyd Gibson, a sparring partner, said, "Ah. He can't hypnotize nobody. Don't let him kid you."

That started Eddy off how he once saw a hypnotist work. How he learned from a book. How he worked on Gibson at the camp when training for Joe Louis. How people walked on Gibson's arms while he slept. How Gibson thought they were kidding him when he woke up.

"I saw an ad in a magazine," said Charles. "How to be the life of the party. So I sent away for the book. They never sent the book. When I was in New York for a radio show I went out and bought a book."

"After the fight, a friend gave me a party in Columbus. I got tired of listening to some fellow play the piano so I tried out my book."

"I was hypnotizing a lady and I couldn't stop laughing. That

Eagles Hit Cellar As Slump Continues

Cougars Could Catch Rockets Here On Friday

The once-powerful Portland Eagles who meet Cougars at the Memorial Arena Friday night appear to have lost their hockey wings.

The Eagles, who tasted easy victories earlier in the season, today are licking their wounds from a 5 to 0 shellacking they suffered last night at the hands of New Westminster Royals in their Pacific Coast Hockey League game. It was the 11th loss in their last 12 games.

Seattle Ironmen, meanwhile, were romping to their 13th win in 37 starts, as they downed Tacoma Rockets 4 to 1.

Eagles suffered their second shutout in as many starts last night. Tom Karakas kicked out 37 shots but had no chance on the five that beat him—all of them coming in the second period.

The first and final sessions were without scoring and without penalties. But the league-leading Royals went on the rampage in the middle, scoring four of them within two minutes.

At Seattle, Ironmen took a 2 to 1 lead in the first period, then added two insurance goals by Joe Bell in the third after a scoreless second stanza.

Ironmen had only 11 players on the bench. Their expected reinforcements from Buffalo failed to show up.

The Seattle victory and the Portland defeat left the two clubs tied for the P.C.H.L. cellar but the Ironmen have two games in hand. Tacoma's loss left the Cougars with an opportunity of overhauling Muzz Patrick's second-place unit with a triumph over the Eagles here tomorrow.

IT'S MY VIEW

By BILL WALKER, Sports Editor.

We somehow got turned around at our place this week and Tuesday was the occasion set aside for the weekly baby-sitting chore. It's usually Thursday, you know, but if you didn't it doesn't matter too much.

Well, since Christmas, we've a new twist to the "daddy, daddy, I wanna cookie routine." Now it's "may I have a cookie?" as a three-wheeled comet goes beeping by on the way to the kitchen. If it's not that, it's a slightly protruding nail in the hall floor that has to be fixed with everything from a screw-driver to a 10-inch spanner being utilized in that so far unsuccessful operation. And Tuesday was no exception.

Usually on a night like this, we try and catch up on this column stuff. You know, things like: Who is Ray Calton? What's happened to the Portland Eagles? Why is Laurie Wallace baldheaded and when will Harry Smith ever forget a name or a face?

Frankly, we didn't get much columning done on Tuesday night. That nail had to be fixed, and just after we got through varnishing the floors, too. Then there's also another angle. How can you expect to work when the widget keeps on saying, "What are you playing at, daddy? Let me play, too."

Calton—A Good Boy

As some measure of relief, you do a couple of turns around the living-room to the tune of "Pluto the Pup." Then twist the radio dial trying to pick up the hockey game in Vancouver before you remember that Coley Hall doesn't allow such broadcasts (same as here).

But we're getting away from the point. Who is Ray Calton? Yes, who is he? His picture was in the paper Monday, but we'll bet few looked at it more than once. We do know this: that Ray Calton was the best player the Crimston Tide had against Varsity Thunderbirds in their McKechnie Cup match last Saturday, but we didn't know WHO he was. And so, we went to Reg Wenman at University School to obtain the answer.

"Calton? Yes, he's one of our boys," Reg said. But don't spoil him, will you?"

Reg has a philosophy about these things. He's been with boys and around sport long enough these past many years to form his opinion of publicity and its effects and we respect him for it.

Sugar And Spice

Reg has seen a number of fine athletes like Calton "spoiled" by too much fanfare and headlines. "If they play a good game, say so," opines Reg. "If they don't, also say so. Not that I think Calton is that type of an athlete; he's too level headed for that."

Nevertheless, Reg couldn't help admitting that this 19-year-old senior matric student has a fine future as a rugby player.

While visiting at the oldest boys' residence school west of Winnipeg, we mullied over rugby and other sports while Reg brewed a pot of tea.

And, as we sat in Harvey House, named after one of the founders, Reg recalled some of the other great athletes who had gone to University School—and apparently the list does not include Jim Coleman, whose main attributes were not of the sporting variety.

Peden, Tye, Skillings

"There was Doug Peden," said Reg. "He was only with us for a year; but he was a good rugby man. Jack Gibbs, Frank Skillings and Bobby Tye. I suppose Tye was about the best we had behind the scrum. It's so difficult to name just one."

(But of course Reg never once mentioned another great University School performer—Reg Wenman.)

Another pot of tea, and then we felt at home. For out of the back room came a familiar sound. You guessed it. Reg's youngest. But it didn't phase Reg. Maybe that's the secret, we thought. Ignore 'em! But Reg's youngest can't climb out of the crib, and ours can.

But nevertheless we took our leave. And Reg's parting shot was: "Don't spoil him will you?"

We don't think we have because we have a feeling, too, that Calton is a level-headed chap, and after all it was only his first senior rugby game.

About the Portland Eagles, Laurie Wallace and Harry Smith. We'll get around to them some other time.

NGAI BOYS STILL TOP

LORNE PREVOST

Experienced Rep Performers

In their last McKechnie Cup game at Macdonald Park, Crimston Tide will look to the veterans of the 1949-50 rep squad to give them the balance and field generalship to overcome the strong North Shore Norwests. Only line changes contemplated by coach Sid Gaunt are the shifting of Art Hicks from centre three-quarters to fullback, with spare Ray Mitchell taking over in the three line, and the insertion of speedy John Campbell at right wing three-quarter. Game time at Macdonald Park Saturday afternoon is 2.30.

Tide-Norwests Game Will Mark End Of Cup Series First Half

When Victoria's all-star Crimston Tide takes the field Saturday against North Shore Norwests, coach Sid Gaunt will be asking his 15-man squad for their best.

The third-round game in the four-team round-robin series for the McKechnie Cup will be the last Tide will play on their home pitch at Macdonald Park. The final three games will see Victoria in action at Vancouver.

The Norwests, a rep squad chosen from the North Vancouver All Blacks and Barbarians, boast a victory over Vancouver Lions, who whipped Tide in the first game here. With Ray Grant, Alex Mahood, Bob Pegues and Dick Hallaway in the line-up, Norwests present one of the most experienced and able obstacles in the path of Bruce McLean's club.

HICKS IS VET

Crimston Tide has its own experienced veterans. Art Hicks, 183-pound centre three-quarters, is the oldest at 29, and one of the headiest and fastest men on the field. Art played eight years with Vancouver Rowing Club and has been a member of many Vancouver rep teams. He may be used at fullback Saturday.

At 23, Harry Turner can qualify as a veteran. Captain of the J.B.A.A. team in regular city league play, he was a member of last year's Tide. Harry is one of the heaviest men on the Victoria squad. Only John Shipley, Mike Jones and Charlie Brumwell top his 195 pounds.

Speedy Lorne Prevost is also playing his second year with Tide. The wing three-quarters performed with Oak Bay High and Wanderers for seven years before entering senior company with the Canadian Scottish. He is 21 years old and weighs 149 pounds.

After Saturday's game against Norwests, Crimston Tide will be idle for two weeks until they meet Varsity on the U.B.C. grounds Jan. 27. The second game with Vancouver Lions will take place in Vancouver Feb. 24, and the series will close when Tide meets Norwests again at North Vancouver on St. Patrick's Day.

Game time at Macdonald Park Saturday afternoon is 2.30. The Tide will hold its final workout at Macdonald Park tonight at 7.30.

Hat Trick For Richard As Habs Blank Rangers

Just a week ago the supporters of Montreal Canadiens were shedding tears for their team and saving their cheers for amazing Mr. Maurice Richard.

Today they can scream happily for both. The team, which appeared to be heading for the National Hockey League cellar, is back in the contenders' circle, and the Rocket is flying higher than ever.

Canadiens jumped back into a third-place tie with Boston Bruins last night when they put the chill on what has been described as the hottest team in the league—New York Rangers.

The score was 3 to 0, and Richard distinguished himself once again by scoring all three goals while Gerry McNeil was working hard for his fifth shut-out of the season.

Richard's scoring feat shoved his season's total up to an impressive total of 24 goals. It increased his second-place figure for the all-time modern scoring race to 274—four better than Aurel Joliat and the late Howie Morenz, whom he had tied last Thursday night.

And it brought him closer to the all-time high of 323 scored by Nels Stewart during his lengthy ice career.

Summary follows:
Montreal 3, New York 0
First period—1. Montreal, Richard (Harvey 9:22, Penalties: Stanovak, Manick, Evans, Lach, Kyle.
Second period—Scoring: none. Penalties: Egan (2), Manick, Lewick, Harvey.
Third period—2. Montreal, Richard (Olmstead, Lach) 17:34, 3. Montreal, Richard (Olmstead) 18:56. Penalties: Kullman, Bourdard, Sinclair.

'Baling Wire' Ben Beat His Way Back

NEW YORK (AP)—Bantam Ben Hogan's phenomenal, movie-script rally from a near-fatal accident to regain his old golfing heights was rated today as the greatest comeback in sports for 1950.

American sports writers and broadcasters, participating in the year-end Associated Press poll, had little trouble making up their minds in this category, giving an overwhelming vote to the plucky little shotmaker from Texas.

Feb. 2, 1949, Hogan was critically injured in an automobile accident. There was doubt that the sinewy veteran who the year before had scored professional golf's grand slam—the P.G.A., open and western—would ever walk, much less play, again.

But by mid-summer Hogan was hobbling around on crutches and in December played his first round of friendly golf.

There was a flurry of excitement when it was announced Hogan would attempt his comeback to competitive golf in the rich Los Angeles Open Jan. 6. Could Hogan do it? He replied quickly.

Walking stiffly on legs held together by baling wire, Hogan amazed the golf world by finishing in a tie with Sam Snead for first place, shooting a remarkable 280. It was immaterial that Ben later lost to his old rival in a playoff.

CAPTURES OPEN

Hogan won the Greenbrier open in May with a record-tying 21-under-par 259, and then climaxed his spectacular comeback by winning the National Open at Philadelphia in June.

Hogan received 112 first-place votes from the 214 who cast ballots, and piled up 393 points on the basis of three for a first-place vote, two for second and one for a third.

Second place went to another whose career was almost cut short by tragedy—Eddie Walker, first baseman of Philadelphia Phillies.

Clippers Trip Smoke Eaters

TRAIL, B.C. (CP)—Nanaimo Clippers, backed with stellar goal-keeping by little Denny McManus, last night battled to a 4 to 3 victory over Trail Smoke Eaters in their inter-league hockey game here.

The win marked the first for the Mainline-Okanagan Leaguers in five road games. The loss dropped the Smokies further behind the leading Spokane Flyers of the Western International League.

delphia Phillies.

Waitkus was shot and badly wounded in Chicago June 15, 1949, by a 19-year-old girl who explained she just had an "urge to kill somebody."

He came back last year to play 154 games for the Phillies, help them to the National League pennant and play in the world series. He batted .284.

"The Western Man"

Our house was once a quiet place. Before the "West" took over. But now... Indians & rustlers lie huddled on the floor.

Queer people in my hall I greet. I never know just who I'll meet. It could be Roy or Gene or Hoppy. Always dapper... never sloppy.

Boots a-shinin'... guns a-gleam. How do they get up so much steam? Rushing by with loud "WA-HOOOS". Times my feet jump from my shoes.

Six guns drawn by hands so steady. Always watchful... always ready.

Horses tethered to the table. Now my kitchen is his stable.

Bed rolls thrown down on the floor—Camp fires gleam & chill winds roar—Coffee bollin' in a can—Quite a guy... this Western Man.

"Oh, come on, Mom... don't you faint. It's only me... on my old paint. All these shots & smelly smoke. Just my cap gun... just a joke."

Flashing lassoes snare my lamp. "Sorry, Mom... we'll break up camp." Steers rush by in full stampede. I've lost my voice but pay no heed.

For who am "I"... I'm just his "MOTHER." Tonight I'll be his Injun brother. Very brave & quite aloof. Now "I'm" acting like a goof.

But all this Western atmosphere. Only makes him seem more dear. Good clean fun with many a smile. Makes my mused-up house worthwhile. He's full of dreams & future plans—Tilted hat & grown-up mans. God be kind & keep him free From the troubles that we see.

Help us find a peace to last. While he grows so very fast. Then when he's grown & slowed his pace. He'll find this world a better place.

Ghost Scared Of Television Debut

LONDON (AP)—The ghost of Catherine Howard failed to make her television debut Wednesday night and the BBC was sorry—and a trifle embarrassed—about it.

BBC publicity had let the television audience know that they might see the ghost of the 20-year-old beauty who became Queen of England and was beheaded by her husband, King Henry VIII.

Television cameras were all primed Tuesday night in the gallery at Hampton Court, historic palace on the Thames, where legend says the ghost of the unhappy queen walks nightly counting her sorrows.

A television engineer offered this technical explanation: "Ghosts don't like these high frequency jerks in our current."

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

By OSWALD JACOBY

One reason some bridge players don't progress very far is that they forget the problems of a declarer when they happen to be defending, and vice versa. For example, probably every experienced player has been faced by the problem that confronted South in the hand shown today. However, very few defenders would have the imagination to create this problem for declarer.

West opened the jack of diamonds, and South won with the king. It is hard to see at first how South can possibly lose this contract, but it was all reasonable enough.

Declarer drew three rounds of trumps, discarding a diamond from dummy on the third trump. He then led the ten of clubs from his hand and let it ride for a finesse.

East won with the king of clubs—and since East was Larry Lou—he promptly gave declarer something to think about. To be specific, Lou returned the queen of hearts.

This is a situation that is familiar to every experienced bridge player. South must somehow manage to win a heart trick in order to avoid defeat. If East is leading from the Q-J of hearts, South must play low on the queen of hearts. If East then continues with the jack of hearts, South can play the king, thus driving out the ace and establishing dummy's ten. If East continues with a low heart, South can play low, and then West will have to play his ace to win the trick.

South was aware of the fact that Larry Lou might be staging one of the deceptive plays for which he is so well known. But it seemed equally possible that Lou's hearts really were headed by the queen and jack. He therefore played a low heart on Lou's queen.

Lou did not betray any surprise when his queen of hearts held the trick. After all, it was possible that his partner had the king. He continued with the deuce of hearts, and South played low again, hoping that Lou had led from the jack of hearts.

As it happened, of course, West was able to win the second heart trick with the jack. He then returned a heart to East's ace, defeating the contract.

Rangy, Drawling Chill Wills Doesn't Want To Be A Star

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Found: A film player who doesn't want to be a star.

The guy is Chill Wills, the rangy, drawling actor from Seagoville, Texas, who has often been mentioned to play the life of Will Rogers on the screen. He is also known as the voice of Francis, the talking mule, and as the comic character in a variety of westerns and other films.

I asked him: "Do you want to be a star?"

"Waal," he answered, "I wouldn't mind getting some of that money the stars get, but I don't want any of that fuss and feathers that go with it. I'd just as soon let the boy and the girl carry the load on the theatre marquee."

"There are few instrumentalists who could carry off performances with orchestra of four works of widely varying style during the course of one evening and not be called a sensationalist. JEWELS COUNT NOT THE KISS

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Three men kissed Mrs. Mildred W. Young, all without her consent.

She told police they came to her door, ordered her at gunpoint back into the house, trussed her to a bedstead, ransacked the house of $20,000 worth of jewelry, silverware and clothing, took it into their auto, and then returned, each to take a goodbye kiss.

Mrs. Young told police she wants the jewelry back. The Kisses? Foxy!

Langlie Has Plan To Aid Washington

OLYMPIA, Wash. (AP)—Governor Arthur B. Langlie Tuesday proposed a three-way plan to get the state out of the red and balance its budget.

It called for: A bond issue to pay off the present indebtedness which, he estimated, will be $47,300,000 by the end of the biennium March 31.

A multi-million dollar cut in state spending, to be brought about by a $37,000,000 reduction in appropriations.

A 4 per cent corporation franchise tax which would raise between $35,000,000 and $40,000,000 during the next two years.

Burgess Bedtime Story

By THORNTON W. BURGESS

When relatives fall out, alas,
Most anything may come to pass.
—Old Mother Nature.

Over in the green forest two cousins had met. Had you seen them you would hardly have suspected that they were cousins. One was Spite the Marten and the other was Shadow the Weasel. Spite wore a soft, rich, brown coat, the sort of a coat that women envy him for. He was much bigger than his cousin. Shadow wore a pure white coat, as white as the snow that covered all the ground. You know, Shadow is a very small person, so slender that he can slip easily into a hole that is not much bigger than a mouse would use. Chatterer the Red Squirrel is a small person, as you know, too. So is his cousin, Striped Chipmunk. But where they can go Shadow can follow. It is for this reason that among the small folk of the green forest and the green meadows no enemy is more dreaded than Shadow the Weasel.

Spite the Marten is long and slender. He is bigger than another cousin, Billy Mink, and Billy is bigger than Shadow. It is fortunate that they do not all live in the same neighborhood because there is no love between these cousins. Spite loves the deep woods of the great mountain. He doesn't like water. Indeed, he dislikes it. You will not find Spite in swimming. Billy Mink loves water and you seldom find him far from it. He is a wonderful swimmer. He loves to catch and eat fish. Spite loves to eat fish, but he never would have any if someone else did not catch them for him.

CHICKEN-KILLER

Little Shadow the Weasel is at home wherever he may be. He loves to visit henyards. There he gets in great mischief by killing hens and chickens. He is perfectly at home around the buildings of man but he is just as much at home in the green forest.

Now over in the green forest the two cousins, Spite and Shadow, were facing each other a short distance apart. They were glaring at each other. Yes, sir, they were doing just that. It isn't a nice thing for relatives to glare at each other. Of course not. The truth is Shadow knew his big cousin would just as soon catch him for dinner as anyone else just then. Yet small as he was, Shadow wasn't afraid. There is no one among all the folks in fur bolder or with less fear than little Shadow the Weasel. That is because he has a wonderful opinion of himself and his ability to take care of himself. He is quick. No one is quicker, and at all times where ever he is, he always knows where the nearest hole is—in which he can find shelter. He always knows the nearest safe hiding place.

He had come over to the green forest hoping he might surprise and catch Chatterer the Red Squirrel. He had heard Chatterer scolding. The scolding had stopped just before he had discovered his cousin, Spite. Instantly he knew that Spite had heard Chatterer, too, and was looking for him. He knew, too, that Spite could chase Chatterer through the treetops, being as much at home in trees as Chatterer himself. Shadow himself can climb quite readily, but is more at home on the ground. So he wasn't at all glad to find his cousin there over in the green forest.

"Why don't you stay at home

"Why don't you stay at home where you belong and not spoil the hunting of others?" hissed Shadow.

where you belong and not spoil the hunting of others?" said Shadow.

EDGES FORWARD

"I belong wherever I may be," retorted Spite. All the time he was edging forward a little. He hoped that Shadow wouldn't notice it.

"Don't think you can catch me, you big bully, because you can't," snarled his small cousin in white, whose eyes were red with rage.

Spite made a sudden rush. Shadow vanished as if by magic. There was a small hole at the foot of a tree close to where Shadow had been just a moment before. Spite saw Shadow's black tail vanish in that hole. A moment later Shadow's face appeared just inside the entrance. "Can't catch me!" he taunted.

Pleading guilty to two charges of failing to pay employees in accordance with the Semi-monthly Payment of Wages Act, William McBay, 317 Simcoe Street, was given until April 10 to pay back wages. Employees concerned in the charges are James A. Reid and Robert W. Harris.

A $50 fine was imposed against William W. Smith, Thetis Lake Road, when he pleaded guilty to a charge of dangerous driving following a Dec. 23 collision on Gorge Road. Magistrate H. C. Hall restricted Smith to driving for business purposes only for three months.

Carving May Be Ancient Hand

A stone carving of a human head believed 1,000 to 2,000 years old, pre-dating historically known Indian culture, has been donated to the Provincial Museum by Mrs. Demmline Green of Powell River.

The head is marked by a three-inch bowl on the crown which, museum anthropologist Wilson Duff believes, may have been used to hold medicine or in religious ceremonies.

BRITISH SHIP MEAT HERE

Incredulous London Press Bares 'Scandal'

By ALAN HARVEY
LONDON (CP)—With Britain's meat ration at a microscopically low level—and most of it tasting like chunks of untanned leather at that—a newspaper headline proclaimed today that this country is actually sending meat to Canada, of all places.

Government officials said it's true, all right. But they added that the traffic is so small it really doesn't make any difference.

"Just a few hundred tons a year are involved," a food ministry spokesman said. "It wouldn't make the slightest difference to the ration."

But the Daily Express, which put the story under the incredulous headline, "We Send Meat to Canada," quoted housewives' representatives as saying it's "ridiculous" that any meat should go abroad.

One firm involved in the coast-to-Newcastle business was said to be in Urnston, Lancashire. It sends meat, originally obtained from Australia, New Zealand and Argentina, in cans labelled "braised steak," "steak pie," and "minced beef."

The Daily Express quoted an official of the firm as saying this trade earns dollars.

"We sell on quality," the official was quoted as saying. "Only that and the fact that the price is in the middle range enable us to compete with Canadian meat packers."

The British ration now provides 10 pence (about 12 cents) worth of fresh meat a week, if you can get it. Most butchers are trying to get by with heart and frozen liver of dubious quality.

This reporter did the family shopping last week and came up with two stringy steaks—the only meat from British sources we have been able to get in a month.

U.S. Air Force Claims Estimates Of Enemy Troops Killed In Korea Could Be Higher

By OLEN CLEMENTS

FIFTH AIR FORCE HEADQUARTERS, Korea (AP)—The United States Air Force claims its estimates of enemy troops killed by planes are more nearly correct than many people think.

(The question was raised most pointedly last week by the London Daily Mirror in a front-page story scoffing at air force claims. It said pilots flying fast planes could not glean much information on how many enemy personnel they killed.)

Here's the way the air force arrives at its conclusions:

An interrogation officer—a sort of professional doubting Thomas—questions each pilot after every mission. There are usually four planes in each fighter flight—and fighters are doing most of the work now.

He evaluates each pilot's report, trying to strike a reasonable medium. Then, in most cases, he subtracts up to a third of the total claimed killed by the pilots and balances that with what aerial observers and ground intelligence have reported on the enemy disposition.

Plane cameras record the action in each strike; the movies are reviewed daily.

Pilots are not allowed to claim having killed any troops they do not actually see themselves. Buildings strafed and bombed are not permitted to be added to air force calculation of personnel casualties.

The U.S. Eighth Army says the air force actually underestimates casualties inflicted on the Communists.

Here is an actual case in point: Nov. 28 the air force announced it had killed 230 enemy troops by strafing. The Eighth Army took the enemy positions the next day and found 1,025 enemy bodies—all killed by .50 calibre machine-gun bullets. U.S. fighter planes are armed with .50 calibre machine guns.

CAB SPLASHED WRONG VICTIM

DETROIT (AP)—On a balmy day last September a taxicab tore through a puddle splashing water into Judge Ralph W. Liddy's car, drenching two women passengers. The taxi rolled on, soaking the wife and baby of Severino Bignotti and another motorist.

Yesterday the cab driver was fined $25. Bignotti had Judge Liddy as a witness.

By ART STOTT

Once I saw an animated cartoon of Bugs Bunny playing himself a game of tennis. It was quite an accomplishment. Bugs would serve. Then he'd whizz over the net to make the return, and whip back to catch the shot on the half-volley. That's dexterity, but it was pretty exhausting, just looking at it.

It's a lot easier, though still a bit confusing, to watch a youngster being David and Goliath all by himself. He twirls his imaginary sling and lets the stone go. That's the David part. In a twinkling he becomes Goliath, struck by the rock. He staggers in the agony of his wounds and finally succumbs. It looks a little daffy, with the boy playing two characters.

STILL, THERE MAY be an unconscious moral in this boy's concept of the David and Goliath dramatization. Not many people have bothered to put themselves in Goliath's place. It hasn't seemed worthwhile to hear his side of the story—which may be just as well.

Villains are supposed to stay villains. Just the same, when Ludwig Lewisohn picked up that despicable character from the "Merchant of Venice" and wrote "The Last Days of Shylock" around him, it did put a different complexion on the old gentleman.

I don't think the youngster who was David and Goliath all in one was very sympathetic to the big guy who stopped the rock with his noggin. He was just enjoying one of those ghoulish little interludes one sometimes find in a boy's play.

However, if he can develop the habit of putting himself in the other fellow's place, is should help him to make better judgments. It might even teach him to recognize the fact that there are two or more sides to almost everything.

NEXT TO CUTE sayings and doings of small children, the actions of pets rank high as topics of conversation. Try to tell a dog owner of something smart your own dog did, and you'll draw a "topper" every time.

It's getting to be the same with "bugdie" birds. "Bugdies," some fanciers suggest, are the closest things to humans in the bird kingdom. You have to be careful when you're talking to owners. Never, in their presence, call a stupid person a "bird brain." That's an insult to their pets.

"Bugdies" become part of the family. The old phrase "Wait till I tell ya what the kid did yesterday" has been replaced by: "Say, these bugdies are smart. Why last night..." and away it goes.

UP IN THE newsroom the boys are hearing quite a lot about a particular "bugdie" these days. It's almost literate. The owner spreads the first page of the Times' second section on the bottom of its cage each day. "Bugdie" hops down from its perch, scans the first column on that page, cocks its head and winks at the picture that runs there five days a week.

That might be flattering to the picture. It doesn't make the subject another St. Francis of Assisi, but he's usually pleased to be noticed. It might be flattering, but it isn't. Who'd want to gain distinction as the face at the bottom of the bird cage?

PARKING METER vexations seem endless. When the young lady stepped from her car the other day and rummaged through the catch-all she calls a purse for a nickel to put in the slot, she found she had no change.

She rushed into a nearby store and asked the clerk to break a five-dollar bill. The clerk, schooled in a new policy, said it was not the store's custom to make change. Worried, the young woman bought a tube of toothpaste and received back bills and silver for the five dollars she had tendered. Then she told the clerk she found she didn't need the toothpaste and could she have a refund. The store makes it a matter of principle to provide quick refunds. The young woman left with the change she needed, but the murmured words of the clerk were scarcely a benediction.

When you drive your own car to town, you realize the subtle change the meters have brought to everyday life. Maybe you're healthier. You walk more. It's tough, though, to have greenbacks and not have the means to rent curb space.

Disproves Indians' Claims To Property

Written Proof Shows Victoria Site Purchased From 'Red Men'

Native Indians who, through Andy Paull, president of the North American Brotherhood, charged last Tuesday that millions of dollars were owing them for land acquired from the "red men" in days long ago.

IN COURT

VICTORIA
Terrance D. Burns, 18, 1247 Lyall, found guilty of careless driving, was fined $40 and had his license suspended. Charge followed an accident Dec. 24 at the Fountain Intersection.

Kenneth Russel Codling, 386 Cormorant, was fined $35 when he pleaded guilty to a charge of careless driving. The charge followed a collision Dec. 24 in which Codling's car, being backed from a parking place, hit another vehicle, doing $85 damage.

Ernest McLeod McNeilly, 595 Gorge, was fined $35 when he was found guilty to a charge of careless driving. The charge was laid in connection with an accident on Bridge Street. Evidence was that a car driven by Charles B. McLeod, 725 Pine Street, was in collision with the McNeilly car as it was attempting a U-turn at the intersection of Ellice Street.

KNOCKED DOWN BY CAR
City police took Mary Busby, aged 19, of 741 Queens Avenue, to Jubilee Hospital Wednesday night for treatment of injuries and shock received about 7 when knocked down by a car at Douglas and Caledonia. According to police, the driver of the vehicle was William Sherwood, aged 16, who lives on the Island Highway.

MAY 24 CELEBRATION

Crowning Of Queen Completes Pageant

The pattern of Victoria's May 24 celebration will be slightly changed this year. The coronation of the May Queen, for one thing, will not be held on the steps of the Parliament Buildings, as has been customary, but will culminate a pageant of nations, tentatively fixed for Athletic Park on the night of May 23.

This was decided by the Greater Victoria Celebrations Association at its first meeting of 1951 Wednesday night in the council chamber of City Hall.

NO JAP ORDER FOR B.C. COAL

B.C.'s coal industry has not been stimulated by the Korean war as predicted in government circles here a few months ago.

Mainly because of lack of shipping space, no coal has been shipped to Japan from this province since 1949, it was learned today.

When the shooting started in Korea, Japan made overtures to B.C. to obtain coal, fearing a cut in its supply by Asiatic sources.

Jackie Souders, Noted Bandsman, Here With Family

Jackie Souders, well-known northwest band leader and trombonist, was a Victoria visitor today with his wife and two children.

Souders set an all-time record in the early 30's when he played and acted as master of ceremonies for the old Fanchon and Marco circuit for 30 months at Vancouver's Strand Theatre.

He and his orchestra have visited Victoria many times, last playing an engagement at the York Theatre in the early war years.

The popular maestro, who now makes his home in Seattle, is on a holiday driving tour and left Victoria before noon to travel to Nanaimo, Vancouver, and the Bridge River district.

Souders was delighted with the appearance of Victoria's War Memorial Arena and expressed the hope that he might bring his orchestra here in the summer for a "one-nighter." An ardent angler, he added with a grin: "I really want to find out if those Cowichan Bay salmon are as big as our Puget Sound specimens."

Bruce McKelvie, prominent B.C. historian, who came out of the Archives in the Legislative Buildings today with written proof that the Indian lands, including those on which the capitol buildings are situated, were bought by the white men over 100 years ago.

It was on April 29, 1850, says historian McKelvie, that Chief Factor James Douglas assembled the Indians at a grand pow-wow at what is now known as Beacon Hill Park, when negotiations for the land were entered upon.

Fourteen treaties were negotiated between April 29 and May 7 concerned mainly with extinguishment of land title covering the lower part of Vancouver Island, although the northern Kwakiutis and Nanaimoes also signed at the time.

Later additional treaties were included with other tribes.

DOUGLAS GIVEN DEEDS

Every foot of ground from beyond Sooke to Saanich Inlet and including Sooke, Metchosin, Colquitz, Esquimalt, Saanich peninsula and Victoria and Oak Bay was deeded to Douglas with the exception of reserves and enclosed fields.

It was the Swengwhung tribe that owned what is now the centre of Victoria. The deed for this section of land was signed by Chief Snaw-nuck and 29 other leaders of the "crew."

The Swengwhungs were paid goods to the value of £75 for their lands.

The Fraternal Order of Eagles was appointed to make arrangements for the pageant and the Lions Club was again selected to work out a program for the May Queen and her entourage.

The Elks Club was detailed to arrange this year's May 24 parade and the Native Sons and the Royal Canadian Navy were asked to plan a May 24 regatta at the Gorge.

The Civic Employees' Association was asked to undertake this year's fireworks display.

While the question of financing the celebration was put over until the next meeting, Feb. 13, it was indicated there would be no sale of booster buttons which were offered last year.

Financial support from the public will be sought in a different way.

Air Control Head To Address Group

Wing Cmdr. D. F. Manders, officer commanding the R.C. A.F.'s Aircraft Control and Warning Squadron at Vancouver, and who is in charge of air force reserve activities in B.C., will speak to the Victoria Air Force Officers' Association next Wednesday on establishment of a similar unit here.

He was in the city this week helping in setting up the framework of a recently-approved reserve radar unit for Victoria.

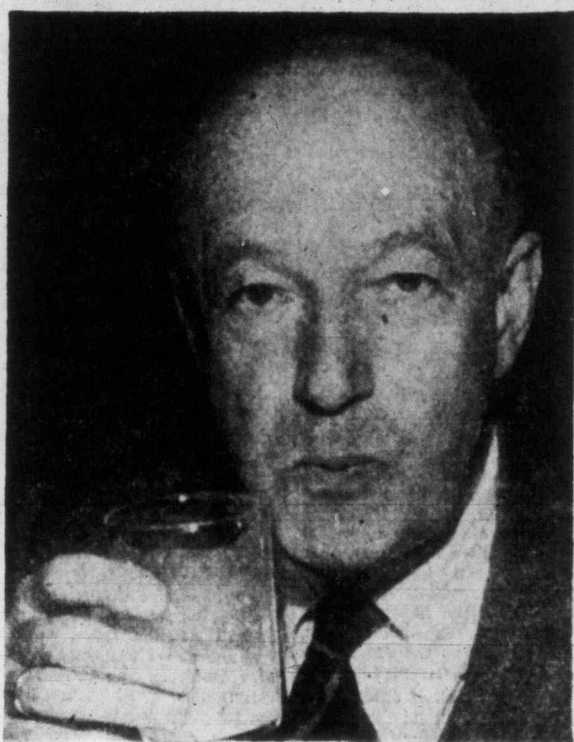

At the meeting, to be held at the Pacific Club, starting at 8, officers for 1951 will be elected.

Appeal On Narcotics Sentence Adjourned
The appeal of Fred Nichols and Ralf Spencer against a conviction of selling narcotics in Vancouver was adjourned today by the Appeal Court until Jan. 22.

They were both sentenced by Judge Bruce Boyd to two years and four months and fined $200.

The Crown is also appealing the sentence on the grounds that it is not severe enough. The two appeals will be heard on the same day.

Mrs. Wanda Abbott, 1092 Hampshire, was committed for trial in higher court by Magistrate Hall on a charge of theft of goods over the value of $25 from MacDonald's Electric.

Joseph Szigeti

Drinking Milk, Penalty Of Violinist's World Fame

By JIM McKEACHIE

Doubtless when violin virtuoso Joseph Szigeti made his debut at the age of 13, he drank milk with his meals.

The intervening period till today—45 years in which the Hungarian-born musician has risen to become one of the world's leading violinists—has been busy—busy to such an extent that as he breakfasted in the Empress Hotel, he was still drinking milk, rather than coffee.

"That is one of the penalties of keeping up a nerve-racking career," sighed the artist as he held his glass with the long fingers he so deftly uses in his work. A brief look at his record shows what he meant; between 1907 and 1914 he toured England several times with such artists as Bosoni, McCormack and Melba; after 1919 he toured on the continent; his first U.S. tour was in 1925-26 and he has made a similar trip each year since in recital and as a soloist, with every major orchestra.

Referring to the Dec. 19 concert in Carnegie Hall which honored his 25th year as a leading performer in the U.S., he said it was "quite a thrill to be reminded of my work."

"The evening was mine," he remarked.

Mr. Szigeti expressed regret that he had declined an invitation to participate in the Festival of Britain next summer, but said he felt he needed to take a rest.

He will spend his holiday with his wife at their home near Los Angeles.

SON-IN-LAW TO PLAY
The artist is looking forward to his return to New York late this month. His son-in-law, the brilliant young pianist, Magaloff, will play in Carnegie Hall Jan. 28. He arrived in New York from Europe Wednesday, but his wife, Mr. Szigeti's daughter, remained at her home in Switzerland.

Asked if his daughter was a musician too, the lean-figured master shook his head: "No, but she is the severest critic of her father and her husband. Her father, mostly, because she has been listening to me longer," he smiled.

Capt. Lewis Brings Word Of Former Prince Robert

Victoria waterfront men received word of an old friend this week when Capt. A. Lewis, master of the British freighter Alendi Hill, was loading lumber at Ogden Point.

Capt. Lewis until recently commanded the former Canadian ship Prince Robert, which served as a passenger ship on this coast for several years, and was converted to an armed navy auxiliary cruiser during the war.

Purchased by a Greek shipping firm after the war, the Prince Robert, which captured the German merchantman Weser off Mexico and brought her here, has been converted again.

She now has accommodation for 750 persons—troopship style, with a cafeteria arrangement for meals.

Capt. Lewis said he took the ship to Australia three times and to South America 11 times with emigrants and D.P.'s from Europe.

Any estimates made of expenses facing the new municipality are "purely guesses," he said, adding that they are quite unpredictable.

Carson Hopes To See Highway Complete In 1951

Public Works Minister E.C. Carson hopes to see reconstruction of the highway between Victoria and Patricia Bay airport completed this year.

First phase of the project has been approved by Ottawa which is sharing the cost on a 50-50 basis.

"But," said Mr. Carson today, "we are a year behind and I am asking the federal government to approve the financing of the second phase so that we can go ahead with the whole job and finish it up this year."

Cost of rebuilding the road to Trans-Canada Highway specification—24 feet of pavement throughout, no sharp curves, and wide shoulders—is estimated at $800,000.

First phase, on which tenders probably will be called before the end of the month, is costing $300,000, and includes reconstruction and rerouting in parts, the section of the highway from Douglas and North Quadra Streets to Telegraph Road, leading to Island View Beach.

Mr. Carson confirmed reports that there are two routes in mind for the northern end of the highway—from Telegraph Road to the airport.

The first takes approximately the same route as the present highway, and the second goes eastward, traveling along the shore line through to Sidney.

APPEAL COURT ACTION

Trade Names For Cleaning Product Subject Of Dispute

A legal battle over similar trade names for a paint cleaning product, is being waged in Appeal Court today jointly by a United States and Canadian company against a B.C. firm. The Chemicals Inc., an American firm and the Overseas Commodities Ltd., a B.C. registered company, opened its appeal against a judgment of Chief Justice W. B. Farris who dismissed their actions for damages against the B.C. firm of Shanahan Ltd. for wrongfully inducing a breach of contract and for trade libel.

The appellant Chemicals Inc. through the Overseas Commodities Ltd., manufactures a paint remover known as "Vano" while Shanahan's make a similar product under the name of "Shano."

There are eight of the tiny craft at the club at present, and it is planned to hold a series of races over a triangular course. Nearly two dozen "Frostbites" raced off Vancouver during the New Year's week-end.

Official formation of a new class for the "Frostbites" is reported to be under way, and many more of the hardy boats may be added to the R.C.Y.C. fleet by next season.

Another Remand In Arson Case

Peter Frankham, 968 Dunsmuir Road, awaiting sentence on an arson charge, was again remanded until Monday at 2:30 when he appeared again in Esquimalt police court this morning. Frankham has pleaded guilty to a charge of having attempted to set on fire a house of which his wife was an occupant.

Call For More Financial Aid To Recreation

A recreation commission is needed in Victoria to ensure citizens of all ages facilities to enjoy leisure time, O. B. Taylor, president of the Recreation Council of Greater Victoria, stated at the annual meeting in City Hall Wednesday night.

He scored lack of public support and City Council interest and the smallness of the grant given by the Community Chest. He said in some 20 cities grants ranging from $7,000 to $27,000 a year were made for administration of recreation commissions.

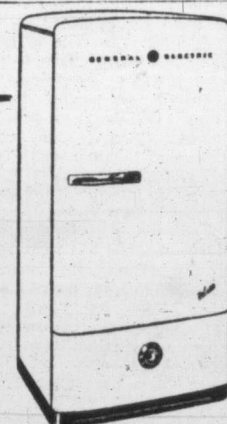

Excellent progress of the 60-Up Club was reported by Mrs. Blair Reid, John Halstead, playground committee chairman, said need of home playgrounds for young children did not seem to be realized in the city.

Three new directors were named for a one-year term. They were W. B. Mortimore, C. A. Ross and Mrs. H. Ketchell. Named to a two-year term were Mrs. M. Broadley, Alderman Frank Mulliner, Mrs. Blair Reid, Mrs. Nettie Doak, Albert Kyle, B. Caley, W. J. Pynn, Mrs. K. MacIntyre, H. Ketchell and Mrs. M. Zalischuk.

Never Use A Book When A Stool Is Available!

By PENNY SAVER

Stepped gingerly into the kitchen the other evening to find my good mother performing a very strange, circus-like act. For props she was using a kitchen chair, and a couple of thick books, and was balancing herself with one foot on the books and other placed a la ballet style on the edge of the drainboard. Seemed there was a dish she couldn't quite reach.

To have exclaimed "What on earth are you doing?" in a wild, excited voice, would have had mother, books and chair sprawled in every direction. Instead, I waited her descent from the home-made ladder... I'm sure that's what it represented...

then sang out with my two-bits worth.

When all had become serene once more, I told the little woman it was time she had a look at a step stool and kitchen chair ensemble... And march to town we did the very next day!

It was a black and white enameled combination that took our eye and fancy. It stood about 34½ inches high and measured about 14 inches wide. From beneath the handsome chair slipped two, rubber lined steps, so that Madam Housewife or hubby, could ascend to the desired height without too many wild antics.

A life-saver and time-saver, too... needn't search the house for the fat books... the all-metal construction sells for $12.95.

With the kindness of a cream wax the combination step stool and chair will glow like a beam of sunlight.

Sauces for ice cream sundaes! Whether you make your own iced delight or buy the brick-of-the-month at a corner store, the sauces will add soda fountain finesse to your dessert. In the six-ounce tins you'll find crushed pineapple, caramel, strawberry, chocolate syrup or marshmallow for 16 pennies.

A dash of relish or catsup on the evening meal is a go-ahead signal for the not-so-hungry brood! Not just the ordinary varieties, though. One is a delightful combination of tomato and mango, that hails from the Old Country. A bottle will cost you 42 pennies. The catsup is made of fresh natural mushrooms, vinegar, olive oil, sugar and spices. All yours for 69 cents.

Local broccoli is on hand for the everyday menu, at 25 pennies a pound... great big juicy Emperor grapes, two pounds for 27 cents... even a few crab apples at 5 cents a pound... Scotch broth for cool days 17 cents a tin... green lima beans, 22 pennies a tin, and colorful red cabbage, 7 pennies.

country and the recommendations of the many workshops provide a blue print for parent education and child care for the present and future.

One of the important findings which can bear re-emphasis is the recognition that parents of the country need support and confidence from authorities in the field of child care. These, in their effort to help parents, quite often stressed what was right and proper and gave parents a sense of inferiority and failure, rather than an inspiration for change.

It is certain that a confident parent, one who has the right feelings toward her children; and who thinks what she is doing is right for them, will have better success, even if some of her methods may be open to criticism.

Such a positive approach to problems will give children confidence, too, that mother and dad know what they are doing and that this is the way for them to act. There will be less chance of opposition from children, then.

We have all known this, intuitively, but it is nice to have confirmation of it. This is one answer to why some parents who do all the "right" things get minimum or poor results; and other parents who make glaring mistakes turn out "good" children.

The main ingredient of good child care is two loving parents who have an affectionate and confident relationship with their children. Then it becomes secondary in importance whether they are cross, at times; whether, occasionally, they spank; whether they begin toilet training early or late; whether they breast or bottle feed.

Our leaflet No. 86, "How To Be a Good Parent," may be had by sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request to Myrtle Meyer Eldred in care of this newspaper.

LOOKING GLASS

SUNNY SKINS GO SALLOW AT NIGHT

Many girls whose skins have a sunny warmth by daylight go sallow under artificial light—the very time, too, when Cinderellas want to glow.

If that's you, give that beige-toned make-up which you're using the night off. Bring out an out-and-out pink powder and foundation. See that the pink tint of each is absolutely free of yellow undertone.

The best shade of lipstick to use to counteract the yellowing effect of night light is a rich fuchsia.

Be warned, too, that dress colors go temperamental at night. Those which don't because they effectively counteract the sallowing effect of light on the skin, are muted blue-greens, gray-pinks and chalk white.

MARY HAWORTH'S MAIL

Mother Of Three Would Prevent Daughter, 20, From Marrying Jobless Older Man Who Drinks

Dear Mary Haworth: My husband and I have three children; and my problem concerns our eldest, our daughter Flora, 20, who is soon to complete her professional schooling. I have always hoped that she will have sufficient education to take care of herself, and that she will have a happy future, for she is highly deserving of the best in life. But to my great dismay, she has been going out recently with a suave character many years her senior, and I fear she has fallen in love with him.

I am certain that she and Wilbur (I'll call him) are planning to be married immediately after her graduation. I had always pleasuredly anticipated my daughter's marriage, never dreaming I should see her exchanging vows with a man like him. He has no job at all and drinks a great deal of liquor, but in spite of his various shortcomings, Flora is completely dazzled by him. Of course he always calls for her at home, and he sometimes spends the evening here; and Flora fatuously hangs on his every word. She actually believes him to be the most wonderful man ever created.

Mary Haworth

It isn't for lack of other attentions that she is accepting Wilbur. She says the fellows her age bore her and are "so young." Why is it that a nice wholesome girl like her gets so enthralled when smooth words roll off the tongue of a worthless man, that she completely overlooks the importance of ambition, good character and dependability in a husband? Men like Wilbur seem gifted at making pretty speeches, whereas a fine young man will be awkward in his attentions to a girl. Please give us perspective on the problem.

MOTHER'S TACTICS BEWILDER DAUGHTER
Dear T. C.: I think that you have contributed in a left-handed way, and unwittingly, to Flora's foolish choice of a smooth, sophisticated fiancé, who drinks too much and has no job at all. As I see the background of her mistake, you've always encouraged her to count on a glamorous sort of future, far removed from the level of your prosaic pursuits, and at the same time you've failed to invest her with sturdy self-confidence, which is the understructure of self-reliant achievement.

With the best of intentions, of course, you've kept her younger than her years, emotionally; extremely dependent upon an older head to serve as trail blazer in her experience. Yet, contradictorily, you've spurred her to "get on in the world." As you can imagine, this type of handling breeds a psychological condition of conflict, dismay and timidity in her emotional constitution. And that's how Wilbur got into the picture, as a fellow who appeals irresistibly to her confused needs of psychological comfort and presumable direction-finding.

HUNGRILY NEEDS SELF-CONFIDENCE

In Wilbur, she thinks she has a knight who knows everything about life and the "larger world." Thus she hangs fatuously on his every word, as you have skeptically noted: Furthermore, I am sure he gives her to understand that she is the most wonderful creature ever born, from his viewpoint—the smartest, sweetest, most capable, etc. In short, he builds up her self-assurance.

You say you're worried for weeks and weeks, and now think it wise to stop brooding and act agreeable—which implies that acting agreeable would be a new tactic on your part. From this I judge that you tried at first to break up the romance by pouting your displeasure, or by giving Flora what's known as "the silent treatment," or a martyred countenance, perhaps. In other words, you've been trying to bully her, which would only increase her danger of making the serious blunder of going through with marriage to a charming no-account. Friendly closeness to war-hardened parents is the best source of wisdom a girl can have, when she is trying to cleave to real values in choosing a mate.

Packard and Austin Owners!

DO YOU KNOW THESE SIGNS OF WASTEFUL TIRE WEAR???

(a) Excessive wear in centre of tread, caused by over-inflation.

(b) Scalloped appearance, caused by tire being out of balance (and possible faulty brakes).

(c) Feathered edges, caused by faulty alignment of wheels.

These conditions mean wasteful tire wear and can lead to blow-outs and defective steering.

We recommend a check on wheel alignment and tire balance every 5,000 miles, and we have the precision equipment to do it right.

SO TAKE A LOOK AT YOUR TIRES TODAY!!

Just phone or call for an appointment.

Date Set For First Meeting Civil Defence

First meeting of the Regional Control Board on Civil Defence will be held at 3.30 p.m. at City Hall, Mayor Percy George appointed Wednesday afternoon following approval of his blueprint for a defence organization.

Reeves of the municipalities, their engineers and some councilors met with the mayor as the regional civil defence committee.

They approved a board to consist of elected officials; a planning or advisory committee or both, to be made up of technical officials who are members of city and municipal staffs; appointment of a regional coordinator; four or five local control boards to function in the municipalities and possibly in unorganized provincial territory and five deputy co-ordinators.

Reeves will ask their councils for $200 for the civil defence set-up. City Council Tuesday approved a $300 grant. It also gave the mayor authority to name three aldermen to the regional board. Reeves will ask their councils for the same authority.

The provincial government will be asked to name one representative. H. F. Bourne, district engineer, has already been assigned by the government to represent unorganized territory. Morran Waller of City Hall staff will act as temporary secretary for the regional control board.

Suggests Reeve, Council Members Serve Without Pay

Reeve and council of Central Saanich, when elected, should serve without pay for at least two years to let the municipality become established economically. Sydney Pickles, candidate for the reevehood, said Wednesday.

He also suggested that fire protection be provided by the volunteer brigade, and that the municipality must do its own policing, since the R.C.M.P. is not taking on new contracts for at least another 12 months.

He also cautioned against a proposal to amalgamate with North Saanich. Sidney not included, saying that the idea is premature and not pertinent at this time.

In his opinion the new municipality is of ample size to be administered economically and efficiently. It is compact, he said, and there will be sufficient revenue to carry on.

Mr. Sammon represents D.V.A. employees on the council.

George, representing the income tax branch, was named vice-president, and John E. Carey, dockyard workers, was returned as secretary-treasurer.

J. Bryant, of the prevailing rate section of the dockyard, and Harold Pretty, of the letter carriers, were named executive members.

The Department reserves the right to reject any or all tenders, and the lowest tender will not necessarily be accepted.

THE DOCTOR SAYS

Shaking Palsy Victims Should Avoid Fatigue

By EDWIN P. JORDAN M.D.

One of the most common disorders of the nervous system is known as Parkinson's disease. It is also called paralysis agitans or shaking palsy. It is usually accompanied by a trembling or shaking of the hands at rest and many of the muscular motions become stiff and slow. Often it starts in one hand and the other may not be involved for months or years.

The cause of this disease is not too well understood. A portion of the brain is damaged but the thinking processes do not seem affected as a rule. In some cases the damage is the result of infection such as occurs in encephalitis or sleeping sickness. In most, however, such a cause cannot be discovered and hardened.

In addition to the shaking in one or both hands victims often notice a loss of muscular strength and difficulty in performing movements which they previously did with ease. The physician is helped in making a diagnosis by a certain lack of expressiveness in the patient's face and by the way he walks—both things which the patient may not realize are present at all.

NO PREVENTATIVE

There is as yet no method preventing the development of Parkinson's disease. In fact it seems doubtful that anything can be developed along this line until more is learned about its cause. Prevention is the ultimate aim, of course, and it cannot be lost sight of in this disease or in any other.

Naturally anyone who has paralysis agitans is most anxious to know what can be done for it and what the future is likely to bring. With regard to treatment it can be said that there is so far no sure complete cure, but that there are drugs available which, together with satisfactory attention to the general health, will relieve many of the symptoms and make life not at all unpleasant.

Medicines alone are not enough and avoidance of fatigue and strenuous physical activity is generally necessary. It is not advisable to give up everything and some occupation which keeps one reasonably busy mentally and physically is helpful.
